

Herald Tribune

Published with The New York Times and The Washington Post

PARIS, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1970

Established 1887

Nixon, Muskie Close Out Bitter U.S. Election Drive

The Outlook

Senate: Republican Gain of 3 Seats
House: Slight Gains by Democrats
Governors: Democratic Gain of 6

By David S. Broder

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (WP).—It is possible that tomorrow night will bring President Nixon the realization of his impossible dream of electing a Republican Senate. But it is highly unlikely.

Instead, Mr. Nixon is likely to bear that his party has made only minor inroads on the supposedly vulnerable Democratic majority, while Democrats have held or boosted their margin of control in the House and made major gains in the ranks of governors.

Thus, this curiously convoluted 1970 election—in which the parties have reversed their normal roles—seems likely to end in a result as negative or nebulous, from the President's viewpoint, as the campaign itself has been.

Normally, an off-year election result is judged by the extent of the opposition party's recovery from its previous presidential defeat. When Mr. Nixon led the Republicans in a dramatic comeback from the ruinous losses of the Democratic landslide of 1964, for example, that was the big news of the 1966 election.

But this year, the situation is

President, Senator Go on TV

By Fred Farris

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—One of the hardest fought midterm election campaigns in American history ends tonight with a nationally televised exchange between President Nixon and his leading Democratic rival.

A 15-minute arrangement provided 15 minutes of prime network time for a replay of a tough speech against "creeping permissiveness" made Saturday by President Nixon, followed by a 15-minute rebuttal by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

Sen. Muskie is considered a leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972, and tonight's exchange may turn out to be a preview of the campaign two years hence.

Mr. Nixon's speech condemned what he called "appeasement" of the "thugs and hoodlums" who "terrorize decent citizens" and disrupt national order.

His slashing attack stemmed from the violent demonstration in San Jose, Calif., last Thursday, when protesters shouted obscenities and reportedly threw eggs and stones at Mr. Nixon's car.

In his reply, Sen. Muskie urged the voters to put aside "the politics of fear" that he said the Republicans were advocating in favor of "the politics of trust—not just for leaders and policies but for trust in your fellow citizens."

He said "there is no issue of law and order or of violence" and denounced what he said were GOP efforts to imply that Democratic candidates condoned violent dissent.

The Maine senator charged: "There has been name-calling and deception of almost unprecedented volume. Honorable men have been slandered, their patriotism doubted."

"It has been led, inspired and guided from the highest offices in the land."

Democrats Protest

Over Democratic protest, the weekend brought half-hour segments on each of the three major networks tonight for the Phoenix, Ariz., speech in which President Nixon most clearly stated his administration's campaign theme—denunciation of the "radical few" who, using violent dissent, seek to impose their demands on the nation.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence P. O'Brien asked the networks for free time to respond to what he said was a GOP "effort to saturate and control the public airwaves" on the eve of "the critical elections of 1970." Sen. Muskie also asked for free time.

The networks refused free time but, with Republican concurrence, agreed to sell the Democrats half the time originally reserved by the GOP. Two wealthy Democrats said a newly organized committee would provide the estimated $150,000 for the 15 minutes.

Mr. O'Brien, in a short radio statement for broadcast tonight, charged that the Republicans were "attempting to hide their failures by depicting the violence" that best President Nixon last Thursday in San

(Continued on Page 3, Col. 3)

ROUND OPENS—Strategic Arms Limitation Talks resumed yesterday in Helsinki. From left, front row, Gerard Smith, U.S. negotiator; Vaino Leskinen, Finnish foreign minister, and Vladimir Semyonov of the U.S.S.R.

Both U.S., Russia Express Hope SALT Talks Resume in Cordial Tone

ERNEST GERTZMAN, U.S. negotiator, said today that the United States and the Soviet Union hoped their talks on limiting strategic arms in a cordial tone with both sides.

He said the talks were expected to resume on Sunday in Helsinki, Finland, after a two-day break.

Mr. Gertzman, who is in Helsinki as a special representative of the U.S. negotiator, said that the talks were expected to resume in a cordial tone.

He said that the talks were expected to resume in a cordial tone.

Estimate of World's A-Atoms: 15 Tons of TNT Per Person

By Bernard Weinraub

LONDON, Nov. 2 (NYT).—Explosives on armaments throughout the world leveled off last year, but nuclear stockpiles were vast enough to blast every person in the world with the equivalent of 15 tons of TNT, a wide-ranging survey of armaments and disarmament said today.

The survey also said that the United States was ahead of the Soviet Union in the arms race but that the Soviet Union had "caught up rapidly" in one category—land-based intercontinental missiles.

"Generally speaking, the United States appears to be the pace-setter in the large-scale incorporation of new technologies into its armory," said the Yearbook of the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute. Copies of the yearbook were issued today in London.

"Broadly speaking, the United States is rapidly introducing multiple warheads and, less rapidly, the ABM (anti-ballistic missile) while not now deploying more long-range delivery vehicles, it is going ahead strongly with the development of new types."

The survey was the second one sponsored by the institute, set up in 1966 to celebrate Sweden's 150 years of unbroken peace. The institute's financing is provided by the Swedish government, although the research group is independent.

Mr. Gertzman said that the talks were expected to resume in a cordial tone.

He said that the talks were expected to resume in a cordial tone.

He said that the talks were expected to resume in a cordial tone.

SEARCH ENDS—A family grieves beside a coffin in the gymnasium of the school in Saint-Laurent-du-Pont, after its search for a child missing in the dance-hall fire. The death toll rose to 144 and an open murder charge was filed. Story on Page 4.

Big 4 Seen In Accord on Berlin Pact

By James Goldsborough

PARIS, Nov. 2.—West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel today sketched the terms of a Berlin agreement that has taken shape and could be approved at the next meeting of the Big Four on Wednesday.

Mr. Scheel, who was meeting with French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann prior to flying to Warsaw for the final stage of negotiations with Poland, left the firm impression that the Big Four already are in agreement.

The plan, as both he and the French explained it, calls for a Big Four written agreement regarding access to Berlin. Following this, the Big Four would delegate to the governments of East and West Germany and the Berlin Senate the responsibility for holding talks to implement the agreement and work out details.

Report Back to '4'

Once the all-German talks had advanced, the Germans would then report back to the Big Four.

This two-tiered system of talks apparently would be acceptable to everybody. It allows the Big Four to control what the Germans come up with, gives the West Germans the opportunity for improvement in the Berlin situation and gives the East Germans an important role in the negotiations. The Ulbricht government now seems to have been swung into line by Moscow.

Mr. Schumann asked if an agreement was likely at Wednesday's meeting, said, "We'll know in a few days, but there is no reason to be pessimistic."

Referring to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's visit to West Germany last Friday, Mr. Schumann said, "I don't think Mr. Gromyko would have gone to the Federal Republic if it hadn't been to help out the chancellor (Willy Brandt) in his task."

Balfour Anniversary Strike in Gaza Strip

GAZA, Occupied Gaza Strip, Nov. 2 (AP).—More than 40,000 students at government and refugee schools struck classes today, the 53d anniversary of the Balfour Declaration, occupation officials said.

The Balfour Declaration gave British support for the establishment of a Jewish national home in Palestine. There are about 110,000 students attending schools in the strip.

What made progress all the more likely was Mr. Scheel's reference to it following the Gromyko meeting. The French today stressed their "complete agreement" with the formula, and French

(Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

High Stakes in Governorships

By David S. Broder

CANTON, Ohio, Nov. 2 (WP).—"What would it mean politically if I win this race?" asked John J. Gilligan, the red-haired former congressman who is running for governor of Ohio. He was repeating a question from a newsmen riding in Mr. Gilligan's car down a rain-slick highway after a fund-raising dinner the other night.

"Well," he said, "this is supposed to be the year of Spiro Agnew and the hard hats, when everything in politics is moving to the right. But if I stand old Ohio elects a liberal Democrat like me and a couple of other big states do the same thing in their governorships, then maybe we'll decide that Agnew isn't the wave of the future after all."

Mr. Gilligan's answer was echoed—with minor variations—by Democratic candidates and party leaders in other major industrial states, where Democratic challengers of unabashed liberal tendencies are seeking to end the Republicans' decade of dominance in the state capitals.

Currently, Republicans fill the governors' chairs in 32 of the 50 states, including every one of the ten largest states except Texas, whose incumbent Democrat, Preston Smith, is being hard-pressed by a Republican in his re-election bid.

Seven of the nine big Republican governorships—Illinois and New Jersey being the exceptions—are up for grabs this year. Democrats have put up strong challengers in all seven races and in five of the seven are currently rated ahead or in close contention.

Though overshadowed by the national battle for control of the Senate, the fights for these key governorships could have major long-term consequences for national politics.

A week-long swing through the major gubernatorial battles—

(Continued on Page 3, Col. 2)

Archbishop for 26 Years

Cardinal Cushing, 75, Dies at Boston Home

BOSTON, Nov. 2 (UPI).—Richard Cardinal Cushing, an immigrant blacksmith's son who became a prince of the Roman Catholic Church and intimate friend of the Kennedy family, died shortly before 2 p.m. today.

Death came two hours after officials of the archdiocese of Boston, which he led for 26 years, announced that he was in "critical" condition.

He died at his home in the Brighton section with the Most Rev. Humberto S. Medeiros, who succeeded him as archbishop of Boston last month, at his bedside.

Chancery officials did not disclose the nature of the 76-year-old prelate's latest medical problems, but it was reliably reported to be cancer. The cardinal reportedly had been confined to his bed for several days.

Long, Varied Career

BOSTON, Nov. 2 (NYT).—Cardinal Cushing, in 26 years as the head of one of the largest and most important archdioceses in the Roman Catholic Church in America, presided over a major period of transition of his church.

It was a period in which his Irish kinsmen moved more surely into the social and economic establishment of New England to be replaced by the newer Spaniards speaking immigrants who shielded their own adjustment to a new society.

When young Cushing entered the priesthood, the church was one of the few avenues of social mobility open to the Irishmen of the slums of Boston. Near the end of his career, the aging cardinal stood beside a young Irish Roman Catholic from Boston who had been elected President of the United States.

High School Dropout

Born in south Boston in 1895, the future cardinal was the son of Patrick and Mary Dahill Cushing. His father was a blacksmith for the city's trolley lines. His mother was a housekeeper before her marriage. The third of five children, young Richard attended public schools but dropped out of South Boston High School.

His parish priest and an uncle from Brooklyn pushed him back into school and, by 1913, he had graduated from Boston College High School. For two years, he worked on the Boston docks to earn part of his tuition at Boston College. He then transferred to St. John's Seminary, where he finally decided to become a diocesan priest.

Education was interrupted briefly for enlistment in the Army during World War I but asthma—a disease that along with emphysema and cancer would plague him until the end—cut short his service.

Ordained a priest at Holy Cross Cathedral on May 26, 1921, Cardinal Cushing offered his first mass at his home parish, where he would later fulfill his mother's dream and offer her his first blessing as a bishop.

He was, as he said himself, tried and found wanting in two parishes—Roxbury and Sumnerville—before his constant pleas to go into missionary work were heard. Even then, he was denied a mission into school and, by 1913, he had graduated from Boston College High School. For two years, he worked on the Boston docks to earn part of his tuition at Boston College. He then transferred to St. John's Seminary, where he finally decided to become a diocesan priest.

Education was interrupted briefly for enlistment in the Army during World War I but asthma—a disease that along with emphysema and cancer would plague him until the end—cut short his service.

Ordained a priest at Holy Cross Cathedral on May 26, 1921, Cardinal Cushing offered his first mass at his home parish, where he would later fulfill his mother's dream and offer her his first blessing as a bishop.

He was, as he said himself, tried and found wanting in two parishes—Roxbury and Sumnerville—before his constant pleas to go into missionary work were heard. Even then, he was denied a mission

(Continued on Page 4, Col. 3)

U.S. Asks 1975 End to Oil Dumping at Sea

By Terence Smith

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (NYT).—In an attempt to combat the growing problem of oil pollution on the high seas, the United States has proposed a sweeping new international agreement to do away with the practice of flushing oil tankers at sea.

The U.S. proposal calls for the elimination of tank-flushing—a prime source of ocean pollution throughout the world—by 1975. It also calls for intensified research into the effects of oil spills and the preparation of international contingency plans to cope with major spills.

The proposal was put forward today in Brussels by Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe at the Oil Spills Conference of NATO's Committee on the Challenges of Modern Society.

The proposal is certain to be a controversial one, since it would require major change in ship design and the construction of extensive port facilities to receive the waste, oily bilge and ballast waters that are now discharged at sea.

Mr. Volpe took note of this in his speech, but described the elimination of tank-flushing as a "major and essential goal—well worthy of the effort required."

"There is no doubt that the burden of achieving this goal will require a major effort by U.S. industry," he said, "but we know it can and must be accomplished and that it will have a dramatic effect on the marine environment."

If approved, the agreement would be more far-reaching and inclusive than all of the existing and pending legislation and treaties that regulate the spillage of oil at sea.

To counter the pollution, which is primarily the result of oil tankers flushing the residue from their empty tanks while at sea, the United States is calling on the 15 NATO nations to resolve to achieve by 1975 a complete halt to all intentional discharge of oil and oily wastes into the oceans by tankers and other vessels.

In addition, the United States is proposing that immediate steps be taken to achieve the following:

- Acceleration of research into the effects of oil spills.
  - Development of technology to prevent spills and of methods to remove oil once it is on the ocean.
  - Establishment of more effective international ship construction standards.
  - Improvement of operating procedures and training programs for shipboard personnel and the preparation of international contingency plans for coping with major spills.
- Officials here noted that if NATO should succeed in implementing such an agreement, it could become the pattern for a wider treaty that might ultimately eliminate the practice of oil-discharge by tankers and waste-discharging by all intentional discharge of oil ships throughout the world.

French Aid Might Be Used in Israel War

Libyan Rejects Strings to Arms Use

LONDON, Nov. 2 (Reuters).—Maj. Abdul Salam Jalloud, deputy premier of Libya, said tonight his country would not hesitate to use tanks purchased from Britain in an attack on Israel.

Repeatedly emphasizing that Libya would not allow any strings to be attached to purchases of British weapons, he told reporters that Libya "naturally" would use tanks to recover land now occupied by Israel, which Arab countries regarded as their own.

He also said Libya would use

French Mirage aircraft in the same way if need arose.

In Paris, it was noted that French Prime Minister Jacques Chaban-Delmas had said last January during a nationally televised interview that France was selling Libya 100 to 110 Mirages with the understanding they would not be used against Israel except in defense.

(Mr. Chaban-Delmas said that if the initial Mirage deliveries were used against Israel, the full 100 ordered would not be delivered, and that Libya would be placed under the same embargo that now covers Israel, Egypt, Syria and Jordan.)

In a press conference lasting nearly two hours, Maj. Jalloud strongly criticized Israel as an expansionist, aggressive country.

He also estimated that Britain owes Libya up to $120 million in connection with air defense contracts and other arms agreements not honored by Britain after the government of former King Idris was deposed in a coup last year.

But he indicated he expected new arms agreements would be reached with Britain despite present difficulties.

Britain Urges Israel, Arabs To Make Package Settlement

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 2 (UPI).—Britain called on Israel and the Arabs today to negotiate a Middle East package deal involving Arab commitment to peace and Israeli withdrawal from conquered territory.

British Ambassador Sir Colin Croft told the General Assembly that such a package deal would be endorsed by the Security Council and supervised by UN personnel.

He said that Britain would not support any resolution altering the balance and composition of the peace measures passed by the Security Council on Nov. 22, 1967.

"We must create true peace and security, which would insure the area against the recurrence of conflict," Sir Colin said as the assembly's Middle East debate entered its second week. "The parties must feel secure at each and every stage."

Emphasizing that the principles set forth in the three-year-old Security Council resolution, which still awaits implementation, should not be disturbed, Sir Colin said that the chief elements of the package deal must be commitment to peace and the questions of withdrawal and boundaries.

"These elements are of equal importance and one cannot be taken without the other," he said.

The settlement, Sir Colin said, should not preclude "minor rectifications" of the Middle East borders to be agreed upon between Israel and the Arabs. This has long been the position of the United States and Britain.

Freedom of navigation for all in the Suez Canal, the Gulf of Aqaba and the Strait of Tiran must be guaranteed, Sir Colin said, and there must be a settlement of the problem of the Palestine refugees.

UN Panel Says Israel Violates Human Rights

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 2 (UPI).—A three-member committee reported to the General Assembly today that Israel was guilty of violating the human rights of Arabs in territories occupied after the June, 1967, war and proposed that a neutral protective power be appointed to safeguard them.

Israel immediately rejected the report as a "compilation of outdated and already refuted Arab propaganda allegations and distortions... an organized propaganda exercise, wanting in minimal judicial guarantees."

The committee, consisting of representatives of Ceylon, Somalia and Yugoslavia, spent several months this year in Arab countries and held hearings in various European capitals. It was not permitted to enter Israel or Israeli-occupied territories.

Atomic Arms Stocktaking

(Continued from Page 1)

out that the Soviet Union has now completed its re-equipment of the Arab armies following the 1967 six-day war. "An estimated $140 million in major weapons were supplied during 1969," said the institute. "A further increase is expected in 1970."

"An interesting feature of Soviet major weapons exports is the concentration on a few countries," said the report. "India and the U.A.R. together accounted for over 80 percent of total Soviet supplies during 1969. India now gets the bulk of its weapons from the Soviet Union. Other countries which received major weapons from the Soviet Union during 1969 were South Yemen, Pakistan, Sudan, Mauritania and Nigeria."

The Soviet Union is the second-largest supplier of major weapons, following the United States, which exported nearly half the total of major weapons around the world.

"Major weapons exports from the United States have nearly doubled (over the previous year)," said the institute. "In the Middle East, the United States has become the primary supplier to Israel since the French embargo. Major U.S. supplies to Israel in 1969 amounted to $110 million."

Over the survey says, the value of major weapons—aircraft, ships, missiles and tanks—supplied to "third world" or Asian and African countries amounted to $1.5 billion in 1969. This is lower than the peak year, 1967, when weapons supplies amounted to $1.8 billion.

Although the Soviet Union poured arms into the United Arab Republic, the survey points out that Soviet weapons supplies actually fell, possibly because of the fear of dependence on the Soviet Union by some receiving countries.

The survey added, "The fall between 1967 and 1969 is due to the reduction in Soviet supplies to the Middle East and North Vietnam. The re-equipment of the Arab armies after the six-day war is now complete. Since the United States halted the bombing of North Vietnam, there has probably been a drastic cut in the supply of anti-aircraft missiles to that country."

Algerian Amnesty

ALGERS, Nov. 2 (Reuters).—A hundred people, including some sentenced by the Algerian Revolutionary Court last year, have been granted amnesty to mark the 16th anniversary of the Algerian revolution, the official Algerie Presse news agency announced Saturday.

ANNA LOWE

Haute Couture models at moderate prices

35 AVENUE MATHIGNON - PARIS (Only 10 minutes)

TEL. 56-51

Hedi Nouria UPI

New Premier Is Appointed By Bourguiba

TUNIS, Nov. 2 (UPI).—President Habib Bourguiba announced today that he had replaced Bahl Ladgham as prime minister of Tunisia. The Tunisian president said he had appointed Hedi Nouria, formerly the economy minister, to head the government.

The Tunisian president said Mr. Ladgham, who had been the head of government in fact since independence, and was given the title of prime minister in November, 1969, had long ago asked to be relieved from his duties.

"He had brought up the subject many times, and each time I asked him to be patient," President Bourguiba said.

The Tunisian president said that on termination of Mr. Ladgham's present mission in the Middle East, where he is heading the Arab commission overseeing the cease-fire between Jordanians and Palestinians guerrillas, the former prime minister will be given a special ministerial post and will act as the president's personal representative or envoy.

"The success of Mr. Bahl Ladgham in the Middle East has reinforced the prestige of Tunisia. Thus I have unburdened him so that he can devote himself to the mission which has been entrusted to him by the Arab summit," the president said.

Haile Selassie Marks 40th Year on Throne

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Nov. 2 (UPI).—Emperor Haile Selassie celebrated his 40th anniversary on the throne of Ethiopia today with a speech at the opening of parliament and a cathedral thanksgiving service.

Selassie, at 78 second only to Emperor Hirohito of Japan as the world's longest-reigning head of state, outlined his government's major accomplishments during the last year as intensification of a development program, improved education and steps to eradicate disease.

However, he said, "the capital inflow from abroad has not been up to our expectation," despite new investment opportunities and the opportunity for work in Ethiopia.

Diplomats Allowed to Meet Captive U.S. Generals Again

MOSCOW, Nov. 2 (UPI).—Two American diplomats flew to Armenia today for their second interview with four U.S. Army generals—held there by the Russians since Oct. 21.

Peter B. Swiers and Richard E. Combs Jr., second secretaries at the U.S. Embassy here, arrived at Yerevan, the Soviet Armenian capital, and were expected to be taken to Leninakan, where the officers have been held since they landed there after accidentally crossing the Soviet-Turkish border in a Beechcraft plane.

The officers are Maj. Gen. Edward C.D. Scherzer, Brig. Gen. Claude M. McQuarrie Jr., Maj. James F. Russell Jr., and Col. Cevat Demel, a Turkish liaison officer.

Mr. Swiers and Mr. Combs met with the four officers Oct. 26. At the time Maj. Russell, the pilot, told them his plane was blown across the border by strong winds as he was making landing approaches to the Turkish city of Kars, 50 miles from Leninakan.

Despite claims that the plane was blown across the border accidentally, the Russian maintained that the incident was a manifestation of "aggressive policies" of Washington. Soviet officials say the incident is still under investigation.

Western diplomats say they are still optimistic about prospects for the release of the four officers.

Italy-Peking Tie Reported Near

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters).—Negotiations between Italy and China to establish diplomatic relations have reached an advanced stage, but predictions of an announcement within 48 hours are premature, informed sources said today.

The agency said it was still not clear how Italy would vote in the United Nations this month when the question of Chinese membership in the organization comes up.

China Revives Summit Call to End A-Arms

'64 Bid Repeated After Japanese Visit

TOKYO, Nov. 2 (AP).—China has revived its six-year-old call for a world summit conference to prohibit and destroy nuclear weapons.

The Chinese first proposed such a meeting on Oct. 16, 1964, immediately after their first nuclear test explosion. The idea was dismissed by Western powers as too unwieldy to be effective.

The proposal was referred to the end of a long communist marking the visit to Peking of a Japanese Socialist party mission headed by chairman Tomomi Narita.

"Struggle Against War"

Distributed by the New China News Agency today, it said: "Both sides unanimously express the determination to struggle against nuclear war and for complete prohibition and thorough destruction of nuclear weapons."

"The delegation of the Japanese Socialist party supports the stand of China that at no time and in no circumstances shall China be the first to use nuclear weapons and China's proposal that a summit conference of all the countries of the world, big and small, be convened to sign an agreement on the complete prohibition and thorough destruction of nuclear weapons and, as a first step, to reach an agreement on not using nuclear weapons."

The original proposal had said that as a first step "the summit conference should reach an agreement to the effect that the nuclear powers undertake not to use nuclear weapons, neither to use them against non-nuclear countries and nuclear-free zones, nor against each other."

It said nothing about prior halt to testing. The Chinese have refused to sign the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty and since the 1964 blast have detonated 11 other nuclear weapons, including a hydrogen bomb.

Linked to Narita

There was no explanation for the inclusion of the summit proposal in the today's communiqué. However, it seemed likely that it was done at Mr. Narita's insistence. Present in Peking when the 1964 bomb was exploded, he publicly and privately expressed his delegation's shock at the test. The Socialists were involved then in a vigorous campaign against nuclear weapons, with the United States as its target.

The communiqué follows the publication of the Japanese government's "white paper" declaring that it would not arm itself with intercontinental missiles, strategic bombers or other advanced weapons but could, theoretically, possess small nuclear weapons.

The statement also coincides with the opening of the third round of talks in Helsinki today between the United States and Russia on the curbing of the strategic arms race.

15 Countries Seek Once Again to Seat Peking in UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 2 (AP).—Fifteen nonaligned and Communist countries agreed today to submit a resolution that would have the General Assembly oust Nationalist China in the United Nations.

The 15 were those that got the question of "restoration of the lawful rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations" on the agenda of the 127-nation assembly's current 26th session. They met this morning at the Algerian UN mission.

Because Communist China has been reported more eager lately to come to the UN than during the recent Cultural Revolution, there has been speculation that it might settle for a softer resolution hinting that Nationalist China might be allowed to remain.

Last year's resolution, like those of earlier years, would have had the assembly recognizing Peking representatives as the only lawful representatives of China to the United Nations and "expel forthwith the representatives of Chiang Kai-shek" the Nationalist President on Formosa. The vote against it was 55-45. Twenty-one countries abstained from the voting.

The countries at the meeting were Algeria, Albania, the Congo Republic, Cuba, Guinea, Iraq, Mali, Mauritania, Romania, Southern Yemen, Sudan, Syria, Tanzania, Yemen and Zambia.

OIL SLICK VICTIM—An inspector of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals picks up a cormorant trapped in oil on the Kentish coast. It is feared that the oil is seepage from the damaged tanker Pacific Glory, aground in the English Channel.

Law-and-Order Pressures

Caracas Police Crack Down; 20 'Drug Addicts' Are Slain

By H.J. Maidenberry

CARACAS, Venezuela, Nov. 2 (UPI).—Here is No. 19, a police official said as he handed out photographs to newsmen Saturday.

No. 19 was Ramon Augusto Castro, a 24-year-old convicted purse-snatcher and housebreaker. He was shot to death by narcotics bureau agents before thousands of shopkeepers in the fashionable Sabana Grande district of Caracas at 3 p.m. Saturday. He was said to have tried to hold up a merchant with a toy pistol.

Police Say He Fired

Police officials said later that Castro had fired a 22-caliber revolver at the agents. This weapon and half a pound of marijuana, said to have been taken from his body, were shown to newsmen by police agents.

"We understand that No. 20 will be ready for your Sunday editions soon," the agents said.

No. 20, Juan Arellano, sought as the leader of a gang of Colombian thieves, was killed by the police in the provincial town of San Cristobal, near the Colombian border. Arellano, who was 30 years old, had allegedly attacked narcotics agents with a knife during an attempted robbery.

Police Kill 28

The police have killed the 20 men, all described as drug addicts, since early last month as part of Operation Vanguard, an effort to stem public outcry against an alarming recent increase in crime and drug addiction in Venezuela. The government fears, moreover, that law-and-order pressures could undermine the democratic system of government here.

Before the drive, government officials had taken pains to cover or soften any hint of brutality or harshness on the part of security forces.

Now, they hint broadly that the police have orders from "high up" to "put flies in the mouths" of drug addicts and other criminals who "understand" expression for killing someone.

Police agents killed five alleged addicts and pushers last Thursday and Friday. Three were shot in the back.

Police Shots Halt Car in Frankfurt, 6 Americans Held

FRANKFURT, Nov. 2 (AP).—Policemen fired 11 shots at a heavy limousine in which six Americans tried to flee and took the four soldiers and two civilians into custody after their car smashed into a tree, the police said here yesterday.

A Frankfurt city police car crew had been watching the occupants of the rented limousine for some time before deciding to check, the police said. They pulled the patrol car in front of the limousine and one man got out to check the occupants. The limousine's driver opened his door and when the man was close he slammed the car in reverse and knocked the man down with the open door.

The two other policemen jumped out of their car and fired at the fleeing vehicle, putting two of its tires. The auto swerved and smashed into a tree.

The police found one firearm, several knives and an unspecified amount of drugs. The four soldiers were handed over to military police yesterday. The police did not identify the men, pending further investigation.

Greece Plans to Build New Athens Airport

ATHENS, Nov. 2 (UPI).—Greece has announced plans to build a new Athens international airport inland from the present site and geared to handle the air traffic of the 1980s.

The present Hellinikon Airport, on the coast eight miles from Athens, is working at maximum capacity to handle an annual load of 70,000 flights and three million passengers. Its main terminal was inaugurated 18 months ago.

The new airport is planned to go into operation sometime between 1978 and 1980.

Driver Cited For Murder By Pakistan

Charged in Death Of Polish Official

KARACHI, Pakistan, Nov. 2 (UPI).—Police today filed murder charges against a man who drove a truck into a reception line for President Zia-ul-Haq, killing a Polish deputy minister, were killed.

Four persons, including a Polish deputy minister, were killed in an airport ground in Karachi, Pakistan, today.

Witnesses said that Mr. Zia-ul-Haq, who was a member of the Pakistan International Corporation Union, was shouting "Death to Communism" just before the heavy truck, which was carrying the Polish official, was driven into the reception line and again, dragged him from the truck and came to a stop at the airport retaining fence.

Off Duty Employee

Police said that Mr. Zia-ul-Haq, who was a member of the Pakistan International Corporation Union, was shouting "Death to Communism" just before the heavy truck, which was carrying the Polish official, was driven into the reception line and again, dragged him from the truck and came to a stop at the airport retaining fence.

The truck, traveling 20 mph, struck the dignitary and dragged three of the bodies from the impact.

Mr. Zia-ul-Haq and his wife were not hurt but were knocked ground in the confusion.

Return to Warsaw

WARSAW, Nov. 2 (UPI).—President Zia-ul-Haq returned this afternoon aboard a plane carrying Mr. Zia-ul-Haq. The Polish Communist party, Wladyslaw Gombik, has large group of top government party officials that met the Air Force plane at a military post.

Newsmen were not allowed the airport, which was guarded by a large force of Soviet soldiers armed with carbines.

The only foreign diplomats not were from the Soviet Embassy.

Spanish Painter Mars Fre By Picasso to Win 'Attention'

VALLEAURIS, France, Nov. 2 (AP).—A huge fresco by Pablo Picasso, "War and Peace," was partly obliterated with paint over the weekend by a Spaniard who said he wanted to attract Picasso's attention "to the difficulties that a young unknown painter had to get acceptance."

Police said the vandal turned himself in today in Nice. They identified him as Salvador Inguero-Du-Torre, 35, who was born in Picasso's hometown of Malaga and works as a dishwasher in Lausanne because he cannot support himself as a painter.

Mr. Inguero-Du-Torre used a paint roller on the fresco. The section covered showed four silhouettes with arms extended toward a dove.

Mr. Picasso, who lives in nearby Mougins, said he was prepared to restore the fresco.

Police said the vandal had left notes in Spanish saying he had acted through idealism. One note was addressed to Mr. Picasso.

When he turned himself in, police quoted Mr. Inguero-Du-Torre as saying:

Group Protests Bus Fares

Police in Bell

BELFAST, Nov. 2 (AP).—Fighting broke out tonight as a demonstration against high fares flared into a riot.

A mob of about 100 stoned a police station group of 30 children, some by adults, commanded and surrounded around a barricade of barbed wire.

The disorders erupted hundreds of demonstrators testing an increase in bus fares to the city hall's refused permission to a building. Skirmishes began the marchers blocked the street.

The demonstration followed the night of fighting in Belfast, Ireland, capital of British troops were in battles with Catholic riot.

New Guinea Quake

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea, Nov. 2 (Reuters).—Rescue teams toured remote villages in New Guinea today the final toll in an earthquake which killed at least 10 and injured 20 yesterday.

Landslides were reported in the mountainous area 80-mile stretch of coast tested by the quake.

WEATHER

ALABAMA	20	68	SU
ALASKA	10 <td>57 <th>SN</th> </td>	57 <th>SN</th>	SN
ARIZONA	17 <td>67 <th>SU</th> </td>	67 <th>SU</th>	SU
ARKANSAS	21 <td>70 <th>SU</th> </td>	70 <th>SU</th>	SU
CALIFORNIA	26 <td>79 <th>CU</th> </td>	79 <th>CU</th>	CU
COLORADO	18 <td>64 <th>CU</th> </td>	64 <th>CU</th>	CU
CONNECTICUT	9 <td>48 <th>SN</th> </td>	48 <th>SN</th>	SN
DELAWARE	12 <td>54 <th>SN</th> </td>	54 <th>SN</th>	SN
FLORIDA	25 <td>78 <th>CU</th> </td>	78 <th>CU</th>	CU
GEORGIA	25 <td>77 <th>CU</th> </td>	77 <th>CU</th>	CU
HAWAII	25 <td>77 <th>CU</th> </td>	77 <th>CU</th>	CU
IDAHO	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU
ILLINOIS	22 <td>72 <th>SU</th> </td>	72 <th>SU</th>	SU
INDIANA	25 <td>77 <th>CU</th> </td>	77 <th>CU</th>	CU
IOWA	21 <td>70 <th>CU</th> </td>	70 <th>CU</th>	CU
KANSAS	18 <td>64 <th>CU</th> </td>	64 <th>CU</th>	CU
KENTUCKY	22 <td>72 <th>CU</th> </td>	72 <th>CU</th>	CU
LOUISIANA	25 <td>77 <th>CU</th> </td>	77 <th>CU</th>	CU
MAINE	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU
MARYLAND	21 <td>70 <th>CU</th> </td>	70 <th>CU</th>	CU
MASSACHUSETTS	18 <td>64 <th>CU</th> </td>	64 <th>CU</th>	CU
MICHIGAN	22 <td>72 <th>CU</th> </td>	72 <th>CU</th>	CU
MINNESOTA	18 <td>64 <th>CU</th> </td>	64 <th>CU</th>	CU
MISSISSIPPI	25 <td>77 <th>CU</th> </td>	77 <th>CU</th>	CU
MISSOURI	22 <td>72 <th>CU</th> </td>	72 <th>CU</th>	CU
MONTANA	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU
NEBRASKA	18 <td>64 <th>CU</th> </td>	64 <th>CU</th>	CU
NEVADA	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU
NEW HAMPSHIRE	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU
NEW JERSEY	21 <td>70 <th>CU</th> </td>	70 <th>CU</th>	CU
NEW MEXICO	18 <td>64 <th>CU</th> </td>	64 <th>CU</th>	CU
NEW YORK	21 <td>70 <th>CU</th> </td>	70 <th>CU</th>	CU
NORTH CAROLINA	25 <td>77 <th>CU</th> </td>	77 <th>CU</th>	CU
NORTH DAKOTA	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU
OHIO	22 <td>72 <th>CU</th> </td>	72 <th>CU</th>	CU
OKLAHOMA	18 <td>64 <th>CU</th> </td>	64 <th>CU</th>	CU
OREGON	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU
PENNSYLVANIA	21 <td>70 <th>CU</th> </td>	70 <th>CU</th>	CU
RHODE ISLAND	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU
SOUTH CAROLINA	25 <td>77 <th>CU</th> </td>	77 <th>CU</th>	CU
SOUTH DAKOTA	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU
TENNESSEE	25 <td>77 <th>CU</th> </td>	77 <th>CU</th>	CU
TEXAS	25 <td>77 <th>CU</th> </td>	77 <th>CU</th>	CU
UTAH	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU
Vermont	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU
VIRGINIA	21 <td>70 <th>CU</th> </td>	70 <th>CU</th>	CU
WASHINGTON	21 <td>70 <th>CU</th> </td>	70 <th>CU</th>	CU
WEST VIRGINIA	21 <td>70 <th>CU</th> </td>	70 <th>CU</th>	CU
WISCONSIN	22 <td>72 <th>CU</th> </td>	72 <th>CU</th>	CU
WYOMING	15 <td>54 <th>CU</th> </td>	54 <th>CU</th>	CU

ETERNAL
MATIC
concept 80

Observe the case and dial of "concept 80". In design, in elegance of line, here is the timepiece of the future. Look inside "concept 80". In the perfect precision, the well-established quality and excellence of the "Eterna-Matic" self-wind, ball-bearing movement, here is a watch with a superb tradition!

Eterna Ltd.
Precision Watch Factory
2540 Granchen, Switzerland in the U.S.
Sterling Watch Company
c/o America Inc.
215 Park Avenue South
New York, N.Y. 10010

BRIEF ENCOUNTER—Bonn Foreign Minister Walter Scheel (left) and his French counterpart, Maurice Schumann, in Paris Monday before the German left for Poland.

ملک من الملک

Swing to Democrats Republicans Expected to Gain Senate, Lose House Seats

(Continued from Page 1)

how much this extra-ordinary investment of presidential and prestige and par-tialization and funds will be the Republicans. This re-election survey, based on interviews with party lead-ers and field reports from a Washington Post report-ers and local newspaper com-ments in the 50 states, is:

net gain for the Repub-licans of one to three Senate seats and short of the pickup to overturn the Demo-cratic 57-43 majority.

standoff or slight Demo-cratic gain—probably less than in the House, where the Democrats hold a 246-189 major-ity that last held them.

net gain of six or seven seats for the Demo-cratic side.

net gain of six or seven seats for the Demo-cratic side. The Demo-cratic side has produced the first loss of a national Demo-cratic, keyed to spread-ers over inflation and oymment. That trend is easily visible in the Great states, where the effects of General Motors strike are ting the economic prob-lem. Pennsylvania, Ohio, an, Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota all appear to be Democratic.

Drift in Question

same trend is visible in sports from California, mountain and farm-belt and in scattered parts of the East—but not in a pattern. What is seen is whether the Nixon-team's furious closing to focus voters' attention economic issues has stop- spread of this Demo-cratic drift into other states.

Republicans believe—or the trend will continue tomorrow, reducing Democratic losses to the point and building ratio gains in the House.

overhand, the apathy decision that have mark-campaign from its be-have continued through-sing days, raising the real-ity of an abnormally prote tomorrow. Almost exception, observers be-hat such a vote would the Republicans and Democratic candidates, in a handful of states

connecticut and Minnesota,

Republicans appear to cently better organized to out their vote on election can do the Democrats and labor-union allies. The to Democratic candidates

tiularly serious if low-

Negro, Puerto Rican

exican-American voters

more difficult to

it is nonpresidential years home in large numbers.

did in most of the states

this year.

GOP Would Gain

smaller the vote—gen-

peaking—the more likely

at a Republican Senate elected. Just how dif-

that achievement looks,

is, is within the grasp of the major races.

Democrats retain their seats in Maine, Mary-

Massachusetts, Michigan, ta, Mississippi, Missouri,

sa, Nevada, New Mexico,

Island, Washington,

Virginia, Wisconsin and

ng, as they are expected

by leaders of both parties.

If Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr.,

is re-elected as an ident in Virginia and with the Democrats on ation of the Senate, as ted;

If State Treasurer Adlai

enson 3d, a Democrat,

Sen. Ralph Tyler Smith,

observers believe he will be re-elected.

If the Republicans sur-upsets to their incum-

in Alaska, Arizona,

Nebraska, Pennsylvania,

ont;

If Rep. William V. Roth

Republican, retains for the Deleware seat of re-

ten John J. Williams, as is;

to gain a 50-50 tie in ate, which would enable ident Agnew to vote

publicans into control,

publicans would have to elect Sen. George Mur-

Republican, in Califor-polls show him trailing John V. Tunney by a nargin.

the New York Senate

seat won either by Conservative James L. Buckley or less plausibly—Sen. Charles E. Goodell, a Republican, rather than being captured by Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, Democrat.

Win from the Democrats in eight of the following nine states: Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, New Jersey, North Dakota, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas and Utah.

That is obviously a large order, if not an outright impossibility. Republicans trail in the latest reports from Connecticut, Florida, New Jersey, North Dakota and Utah. So the President's main hope likely will not be realized.

Democrats Favored

As for the House, the most recent Gallup poll points to the Democrats gaining about a dozen seats. Officials of both parties look for a somewhat smaller net shift, because a Republican redistricting of New York last year is expected to cost the Democrats as many as four seats in that state alone.

For the most part, each party sees its best opportunities for gains in districts where the opposition incumbent is retiring, running for another office or was defeated in a primary. Democrats have an advantage here, for Republicans have 22 "open seats" to defend and Democrats only 11. Also, Democrats have 58 incumbents without major-party or significant independent opposition, while Republicans have only five in the "free-ride" category.

Aside from New York, Republicans see their main chance for House gains in California, Connecticut, New Jersey, North Carolina, Texas and Virginia.

Democrats are looking for victories in Alaska, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Minnesota, Ohio, Utah and Wisconsin.

Should the late-blooming Democratic trend blossom, there might be bigger House gains—perhaps 15 seats. But more significant for 1972 presidential and congressional politics is the likelihood of major Democratic gains this year in the governorships, an area of Republican strength for the last eight years.

Barring upsets, Republicans will re-elect their governors in the two largest states, California and New York. But Democrats are favored to take over governorships in Alaska, Florida, Minnesota and Ohio, and are within striking distance of victory in 11 more states: Arizona, Arkansas, Idaho, Michigan, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Key Governorship Fights May Have Long-Term Effect

(Continued from Page 1)

grounds indicates that Democratic victories in tomorrow's vote would be likely to:

Strengthen liberal forces within the Democratic party in advance of the fight for the 1972 presidential nomination by giving control of major state delegations to the party's nominating convention to men linked by philosophy and personal association to the Kennedy wing of the party.

Give the Democrats a chance to neutralize or offset expected Republican gains from reapportionment and redistricting of seats in the House of Representatives by next year's state legislatures.

Increase the obstacles to President Nixon's re-election in 1972 and perhaps force a sharp change in his political tactics over the next two years.

These changes are, of course, dependent on Democratic victories in the state battles. Currently, the Democrats are rated ahead in Ohio and Florida, in strong contention in Pennsylvania and Michigan, and lagging in California, New York and Massachusetts.

The striking fact about the Democratic gubernatorial contenders is that they all classify themselves as moderates or liberals. California's Jesse B. Unruh, for example, wrote the basic civil rights statutes for California; Massachusetts' Kevin White led the fight for state takeover of welfare payments in the state.

All of them would probably subscribe to the statement made by New York's Arthur J. Goldberg in a speech last month, when he said: "I am a Democrat and a liberal one. I do not apologize for this nor will I deviate from convictions I've held throughout my adult life. I believe the people of this state want liberal and progressive government."

Urban-Minded to a Man

Almost to a man, they are advocating substantial increases in state and federal programs for education, law enforcement, control of pollution and of drug abuse, housing, job training and health care.

All of the Democrats can be classified as urban-minded candidates. All live in big cities or their suburbs and all look to the metropolitan areas of their states for their major support.

Within the Democratic party, all the aspirants but Florida's Reubin O'Donovan Askew have TRAIL'S END, AT LAST—Workmen this weekend took one of the best-known statues in the United States, "End of the Trail," by James Earle Fraser, on a 75-foot trip that art and history buffs hope will be its last. The 55-year-old statue of a wounded Indian on a falling horse was acquired by the National Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City in 1968. Since then it has been kept in a temporary shelter, but Saturday it was moved to a new wing of the museum to be placed alongside other Western works by Fraser.

Nixon, Muskie Close Out Bitter U.S. Vote Drive

(Continued from Page 1)

Jose, Calif. He said: "All of us deplore the violence."

Mr. O'Brien said at a news conference today that the $7,300 big short broadcast would cost was all the Democrats—who face a $9.2 million deficit—could afford. Yesterday, he estimated the three prime-time segments the Republicans bought for tonight cost $300,000 and asked the networks to give free time to both parties.

Sen. Muskie, who was the vice-presidential nominee in 1968, was said by aides to intend to "respond to the Republican tactics of fear and division which threaten to tear this country apart," in his 15-minute speech.

Whether effect the last-minute TV drive will have on the voters who tomorrow elect a new House of Representatives, 35 senators and 35 governors, it comes in the wake of new national polls reporting a pre-ponderant Democratic sentiment across the nation.

The Gallup Poll today said it found Americans preferred Democratic congressional candidates by 53 to 47 percent. The Harris survey gave the Democrats a 46-to-37-percent edge.

If the Republicans do pick up a couple of Senate seats—they have abandoned hope of controlling the Senate—it will be largely due to President Nixon's and Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew's tough campaigning. The President, in speeches across the country, has urged the voters to give him men in the Senate who will support his programs, and Mr. Agnew has urged defeat of those he calls the "radical liberals" in the Senate who, he says, would weaken America and condone violent dissent.

Some political commentators see this campaign as one that failed to develop a useful dialogue on critical issues. Rather, they say, it dealt with symbols only and will leave a residue of bitterness that will spell more trouble for President Nixon.

The Fair Campaign Practices Committee said it had received twice as many complaints about dirty tactics in Senate campaigns this year as in 1968 or 1969.

Today, Mr. Nixon was accused of trying to feed the flames of hatred throughout the nation for his own political gain.

Former Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, representing a specially formed Committee for National Unity, said at a press conference today: "President Nixon and Vice-President Agnew talk of nothing but fear and division of our country. They are trying to exploit fear for their own advantage."

"We never thought it possible that the President and Vice-President would [try] . . . to take over the Republican party for the conservative wing."

The committee, made up of Democrats, is headed by Mr. Harriman. Co-chairmen include Mrs. Coretta King, widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.; Sargent Shriver, former ambassador to France; United Auto Workers president Leonard Woodcock; United Steelworkers president I. W. Abel, and John D. (Jay) Rockefeller, West Virginia's secretary of state.

Mr. O'Brien's radio talk said the economic problems—not violence—are the real issues in the election, "the issues that will determine how you and your family will live in the next two years."

Yesterday, Vice-President Agnew said after a two-hour meeting in San Clemente, Calif., with President Nixon that the Democrats were using "the high lie" to raise unfounded fears that the nation is facing "a recession, depression or worse."

"The Democrats are using the kind of fear or scare tactics that they continuously accuse me of using," Mr. Agnew told reporters.

He said Democratic candidates for the Senate in California, Utah and Nevada have predicted the Nixon administration will close or cut back activity at key military bases, with a great number of people thrown out of work.

"I want to brand those statements . . . false and maliciously false," he said.

While the incumbent, Ronald Reagan, may give the Republicans control of California—the major prize in the redistricting game—losses in the other big states could more than offset it. Democratic redistricting could cost the Republicans as many as 18 House seats in Michigan, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania, according to knowledgeable officials in those states—more than offsetting the nine-seat House gain Republicans think possible in California.

All of which adds up to high-stakes political poker in this year's major gubernatorial races.

Reassignment of House Seats Likely to Aid GOP

By Warren Weaver Jr.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (NYT).—The effect of the 1970 census in depriving ten states of a dozen House seats and reassigning them to six other faster-growing states appears almost certain to benefit the Republican party.

Although there is considerable uncertainty, particularly as to the current legislative elections in the states involved, the best estimate now is that this redistribution of House districts as a result of shifting national population trends will increase the number of Republican seats by five or six, costing the Democrats the same number.

This could be of major political significance in the 1972 congressional elections, the first under the Supreme Court-imposed reapportionment since the recording of the 1970 census. The Republicans, who are now 31 seats short of a House majority, are expected to hold the Democrats to a virtual standoff in tomorrow's election, then make their major try for control in 1972.

A Running Start

If the predicted impact of shifting these districts is correct, it could give the GOP a running start on the next campaign, reducing the size of the gain the party needs for a majority to 30 or perhaps even 25, a reasonable figure for the party holding the White House in a presidential election year.

The estimates deal only with the impact of the census on moving House districts from one state to another. In addition, most states will be required to redraw their congressional district lines to reflect movement of population within the state.

All the actual redrawing of district lines is done by state legislatures. In a state in which the governor and both houses of the legislature are controlled by the same party, a new pattern of districts, frankly partisan but entirely legal, can often be drawn to favor that party materially.

The chief potential example is California, which gains five seats as a result of the interstate shift in population alone. Three or four of these seats seem likely to become Republican. But some admit drafting by a Republican legislature—if Gov. Ronald Reagan's anticipated re-election produces one—could raise that party gain to ten or even 12 seats.

N.Y. Also an Example

A secondary example is New York, which automatically loses two seats, both likely to be Democratic, where the internal readjustment of lines could result in an additional Democratic loss of two or three seats—if Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is re-elected with Republican Senate and assembly majorities.

This is a somewhat chancier proposition than that in California.

In very broad political terms, the 12 seats that are being transferred to the fast-growing states are going, except for one in Connecticut and one in Colorado, to the "sun belt." Florida, Texas, Arizona and California, where the population gains involve older people and relatively prosperous technologists, many of them Republicans.

A survey by correspondents of The New York Times of the ten states that will lose House seats and the six that will gain, while admittedly dependent on a measure of informed speculation at this point, bears out this generally Republican picture.

Of the 12 districts that will be transferred to other states, only four—in Alabama, Ohio, Oklahoma and North Dakota—are now represented by Republican congressmen. The rest—in Iowa, New York, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, West Virginia and Wisconsin—now appear likely to take Democrats with them.

But when these districts elect representatives in their new states—five in California, three in Florida and one each in Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut and Texas—the lineup now appears likely to be nine to three in favor of Republicans, or possibly even ten to two.

New State Agency Accused

Suit Charges Okla. Blacklists Dissidents

By Martin Waldron

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 2 (NYT).—The state of Oklahoma is being challenged in court over its secret files of data, compiled with the help of federal funds, on about 6,000 persons who are considered to be actual or potential trouble-makers.

A lawyer for the Oklahoma Civil Liberties Union said last week that he believed that several Oklahomans have been "blacklisted" as a result of dossiers compiled by the state's Office of Interagency Coordination. The state denies that. The Oklahoma and American Civil Liberties Unions filed suit in U.S. District Court here last week seeking to have the secret state agency disbanded and its files destroyed.

Stephen Jones of Enid, who represents the Oklahoma union, said that several Negroes and whites who had taken part in peace rallies or racial demonstrations had begun having trouble finding jobs or getting into college.

Rejected as Teacher

One young man who helped edit a controversial underground newspaper was rejected as a teacher by 20 school districts even though he had top grades and excellent references, Mr. Jones said.

Gov. Dewey F. Bartlett said that the agency keeps no blacklist and makes its information available only to qualified police agencies for "intelligence purposes." The information enables the police to plan to prevent civil disorder, Gov. Bartlett said.

A spokesman for the agency said it had "files"—the agency rejects the word dossiers—on 6,000 individuals, about 2,000 of whom are Oklahomans. The others are known trouble-makers such as Angela Davis from other states.

Permission was refused for an inspection of the files. A spokesman for the agency said Gov. Bartlett had ordered that only police officers "with a need to know" be allowed to see information collected by the agency. It is under the control of the Oklahoma National Guard.

Fall on Legal Protest

The ACLU suit alleges that the purpose of the agency is to "harass and intimidate." The suit says the effect of this is "to cast a pall over lawful political protest in the state of Oklahoma and to deter [dissidents] from exercising their First Amendment rights."

It says there is a climate of fear that the agency's information "will be released to numerous federal and state agencies and to private employers upon request."

Most of the agency's information is gathered from newspapers and is made available to the FBI as well as to Oklahoma police agencies.

In addition to clipping newspapers, the agency hires part-time investigators and cameramen to attend rallies.

Created by Bartlett

The interagency unit was created by a memorandum in June, 1968, by Gov. Bartlett, who is a Republican.

A retired Army lieutenant colonel, James J. DeFratres, was hired to head it.

To supplement the $27,000 supplied by the Oklahoma National Guard, the agency applied to the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, a division of the Justice Department, for money under a 1968 law that provided for federal funds to improve local law enforcement.

A spokesman in Washington said the Oklahoma agency received $29,953 in federal funds.

Atlanta Man Charged In Fight-Fan Robbery

ATLANTA, Nov. 2 (AP).—An Atlanta man has been charged with the robbery to which more than 100 fans were lured by engraved invitation after the Muhammad Ali-Jerry Quarry fight.

The police identified the man as Houston Jimmy Hammonds, 27, and said he had admitted purchasing a shotgun discarded by one of the masked bandits as they left the house with loot officers now estimated could run twice as high as the $100,000 to $300,000 first estimated.

Eight masked bandits left with the loot after luring the victims to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what they thought was a party.

to what

Jet Hijacked To Cuba From West Coast

San Diego-L.A. Flight Refueled in Mexico

MIAMI, Nov. 2 (UPI)—A Mexican-American waving a pistol and shouting, "This is a Chicanos operation," commandeered a United Airlines flight from San Diego to Los Angeles and ordered it down to Cuba today.

Chicano is a name of unknown origin used to describe Mexican-Americans.

The man told the crew he did not care about the lives of himself or his two children, who were on board.

The Boeing-727 jet was returned to Miami this morning with its crew of six and the 84 remaining passengers after spending several hours in Havana.

The gunman received a hearty welcome in Cuba, the Associated Press reported.

Two passengers aboard the jet said a Cuban militiaman gave the hijacker a warm greeting at the Havana airport. "When we landed, I saw the guy in the khaki uniform patting him on the back as they were walking away," a passenger said.

The plane had been on a 20-minute flight from San Diego to Los Angeles last night when the hijacker burst into the cabin, holding stewardess Nicki Leutar, 21, hostage.

I Mean Screaming
"He was yelling—I mean he was really screaming it out very emotionally—Cuba, Cuba, this is a Chicanos operation," recalled Capt. Joe Kolons, 43, pilot of the craft. "He must have said that a couple of dozen times on the way to Cuba."

The captain tried to explain that the flight, which did not have a sky marshal on board, did not have sufficient fuel to reach Cuba. He said he suggested a return to San Diego for fuel but the hijacker screamed "No San Diego, no San Diego, Mexico, Mexico."

Capt. Kolons proceeded on to Tijuana, Mexico, where he refused the flight on to Havana. The flight took more than six hours.

The hijacker left his two children, a boy of about six and a girl of about four, in the tourist compartment where he had been sitting. The children departed with the hijacker at Havana, however.

"He also told one of the stewardesses that he didn't care about his life or even about the life of his children," said a spokesman.

The hijacking was the second of the weekend. A National Airlines 727 was ordered to Cuba Friday night and its passengers and crew kept in Havana 20 hours until Saturday night. This hijacker was accompanied by his wife and five children.

Soviet Ships Move East From Cuba After U.S. Protest

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The last two of the ships that touched off fears about a possible Soviet submarine base in Cuba left the port of Mariel, near Havana, over the weekend and are steaming eastwards, the Defense Department reported today.

The submarine tender and salvage tug had been at Mariel since Oct. 18, after leaving the western port of Cienfuegos.

A Pentagon spokesman declined to speculate on their intentions, but if they continue on their present course they will enter the Atlantic, possibly on their way home.

The two ships were part of a six-vessel group including a missile-carrying cruiser and missile destroyer that arrived in the Caribbean in early September.

The flotilla began leaving Cienfuegos shortly after the United States raised the possibility that a submarine base was being constructed.

The Soviet Union publicly denied it was building a base in Cuba after Moscow and Washington were reported to have reached an understanding on the issue.

Six Are Arrested In N.Y. Bombings

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (UPI)—Four reputed Weathermen revolutionaries and two other persons were arrested today in three police raids which allegedly turned up material for making bombs as well as maps of more than 50 New York and Chicago buildings, Bronx district attorney Burton Roberts announced.

Mr. Roberts said the six had been under surveillance in connection with an investigation of recent bombings in the metropolitan area, three of which took place almost simultaneously early last Friday. They damaged two armories and a police station.

"The district attorney said, however, that the six were not being charged 'at the time' with having committed actual bombings. He said the investigation is continuing."

Vatican to Issue Stamps
VATICAN CITY, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Vatican post office announced a special issue of five stamps to commemorate Pope Paul's trip to the Philippines and Australia Nov. 27 to Dec. 3. The stamps will go on sale at the Vatican Nov. 26.

CHUNN Est. 1928
Norman Alberman (Pres.)
PERFUMES
Fragrant Gifts, Gloves, Bags,
Cosmetics & substantial export discount
430 RIVER STREET, NEW YORK, N.Y.
Tel. 212-697-1111

THE SAD NEWS—Relatives and friends of victims gather in the town hall at Saint-Laurent-du-Pont to read a notice of identified dead in the dance-hall fire.

French Fire Toll Up to 144; Negligent Homicide Charged

By John L. Hess

PARIS, Nov. 2 (NYT)—French authorities filed an open charge of homicide by negligence today in the fire that swept a dance hall early yesterday. Two more youths died of burns today, raising the toll to 144.

As is customary in opening a criminal investigation, the charge was filed against an unnamed "X." A clamor from the press and opposition politicians demanded that it be directed against the authorities themselves. At least half a dozen reports in the building and operation of the new Cinq-Sept dance hall at St-Laurent-du-Pont, 20 miles north of Grenoble.

The hall had been erected last winter to replace one that had burned down. There were no victims then, and a major concern of the builders of the new dance hall appears to have been security against gate-crashers.

The only easily accessible exit was a revolving gate, which is banned in French places of assembly. The other doors were available to employees only, and at least some of them appear to have been locked.

A building permit had been obtained for the cement-block structure, but the required inspection of the premises before operation seems never to have been made, although the house opened last April.

Such an inspection would have revealed that the interior had been lined with a highly flammable plastic and paper-maché décor, with a plastic ceiling that melted and fell on the struggling dancers. There was no telephone to give the alarm and no hydrant or hose connection for firefighting.

In the event, the conflagration was too sudden for such measures to have helped very much.

The name of the dancehall, Cinq-Sept, is an argot corruption of the phrase "cinq sept," or five seconds, meaning snappy.

When a new rock band from Paris drew young people from a radius of 50 miles. When the fire began just before 2 a.m. in a balcony loge—whether from a cigarette or a short circuit has not been determined—a bartender drew a few persons through a side door, and a few more managed to fight their way through the turnstile.

The bodies of the rest were turned out after the turnstile and piled before the turnstile and under the door.

By midday today relatives and

Calif. Police Foil Kidnapper Who Sought $200,000

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif., Nov. 2 (AP)—Police said they captured a man Saturday who had kidnapped a young man across the street from the police department and tried to collect $200,000 ransom.

Ralph Timothy Potter, 25, address unknown, was booked for investigation of kidnapping. The hostage was found unharmed after spending nearly 12 hours in the trunk of his own car.

Officers gave this account: John G. Lusk, 18, was approached Friday afternoon by Potter in a parking lot where the youth was returning to his car. Potter, indicating he had a weapon, ordered him into the car. The kidnapper stopped at a telephone booth and ordered young Lusk to call a wealthy uncle, John D. Lusk, and demand the ransom.

The uncle called police. Potter was arrested when the uncle's maid took the money in a paper bag to Los Angeles International Airport as Potter instructed. Officers said they were waiting nearby and closed in on Potter.

German Millionaire Gets Out of Prison

MUNICH, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—West German millionaire Hans-Joachim Forst, 47, was released from prison yesterday after serving half of a 36-month sentence for maintaining treasonable contacts with East Germany.

Mr. Forst benefited from a new law allowing the release of certain categories of well behaved prisoners after they have served half their sentences. Mr. Forst was sentenced on July 8, 1969.

Italian Dial Phones

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—Italy's 6,900 telephone subscribers now are able to dial directly to anywhere in the country.

Convicts Grab Hostages, Set Them Free

Sought to Escape Arkansas State Farm

GRADY, Ark., Nov. 2 (Reuters)—Convicts held six prison officials hostage for several hours here today but released them after negotiations.

They had originally demanded to be released from the prison, threatening otherwise to kill the hostages. It was not known what concessions, if any, they had been granted.

State Corrections Director Robert Sarver was the last man released by the convicts at the Cummins State Prison Farm where there have been several disturbances in the past.

Despite the threat today, Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller issued a statement in which he said he would not make deals with convicts under any circumstances.

Four guards were overpowered in an isolation unit of the prison early today by a small group of convicts who demanded a car with a full tank of gasoline and free passage out of the prison grounds.

They warned they would kill the hostages unless their demands were met.

About six hours later, Mr. Steed and Mr. Sarver were also grabbed as hostages while negotiating with the convicts.

Mr. Rockefeller's statement was issued before Mr. Sarver and Mr. Steed were seized by the convicts, who were armed with two guns taken from the guards.

Prison authorities said the convicts—believed to number about 10—were armed with two 38-caliber pistols they had taken from the guards.

The convicts were in touch with prison officials by telephone from the isolation unit.

Scandal was touched off two years ago when a convict testified that two prisoners listed as escapees had in fact been murdered and then buried on the grounds of the prison farm.

Three skeletons were exhumed from graves on the prison grounds, but a state police report said none was that of an escaped convict.

Police said the skeletons had been unearthed from a former prison cemetery.

The police report was labelled a "fraud" by Mr. Thomas Murton, a former criminology professor who had personally ordered the exhumation three weeks after being appointed superintendent of the prison in December, 1967.

Mr. Murton, who was dismissed during the scandal, had been brought in by Gov. Rockefeller to investigate and clean up conditions at the prison.

He said at the time of his dismissal that it was "obvious from the attitudes of the investigators that they didn't want to find anything, and this was reflected in their report."

Gov. Rockefeller also described the discovery as a "mish-mash of information."

A year later, Mr. Murton told a Senate subcommittee in Washington that he believed the bodies of at least 200 inmates murdered by guards were buried in the grounds of Arkansas penitentiaries.

A federal judge in Little Rock recently said the Cummins prison was being operated unconstitutionally.

For many years it functioned as a vast plantation, with convicts put to work raising crops, the profit from which went into the state's general revenue fund.

In the last two years some reforms have been instituted. But, because of a lack of funds, the prison has continued using trustees as guards to supplement the inadequate civilian guard force.

The trustee guards, like the civilian guards, are armed.

Mortar Fire Hits Israeli Village

TEL AVIV, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—An Israeli village on the border with Lebanon was today shelled by mortar fire but there were no casualties, Israeli sources said here.

They said Avivim, home of most of the child victims of an attack on a school bus earlier this year, came under sporadic fire.

While most of Israel's borders continue to remain calm, there have been a number of incidents along the frontier with Lebanon. Five border policemen were injured last week in a bazooka attack on a motorized patrol.

Archbishop for 26 Years

Cardinal Cushing, 75, Dies at Boston Home

(Continued from Page 1)

assignment which he craved but put to work in the Office of the Propagation of the Faith in Boston. Cardinal Cushing served as an assistant director of the office until 1929 when he was promoted to head its fund-raising department.

His success in this field was phenomenal and the young priest's name began to seep into high places within the church hierarchy. Fund-raising also brought him into contact with Joseph Kennedy and a friendship was formed that would later catapult the bishop into international prominence.

Elevated to bishop in 1939 and named by Pope Pius XII as archbishop in 1944, he turned his fund-raising talents to the archdiocese and over the years built hundreds of churches, parish centers, schools, hospitals and homes. He later

FIGHTING WITH FIRE—Two South Vietnamese soldiers set fire to a house in Quang Tin Province, 40 miles south of Da Nang. The South Vietnamese suspect that the house was occupied by Viet Cong forces.

FDA Reaffirms Its Warnings On Danger of Diabetes Drug

By Morton Mintz

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (UPI)—The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has reaffirmed its warning that oral anti-diabetic drugs, after long-term use, lose their efficacy while sharply increasing the probability of premature death from heart attacks, strokes and other vascular complications of diabetes.

The warning is based on a study that generated massive resistance from important segments of the medical profession that relied on the pills to hold down sugar levels in the blood on the assumption that this would delay the onset and progression of the vascular diseases, which also include kidney disorders and blindness.

Critics made sharp and sometimes even personal attacks on the study's authors at medical meetings.

Canada's Food and Drug Directorate and Britain's Committee on the Safety of Drugs initially downgraded the value of the study.

Manufacturers fanned the controversy from the start by sending out reassuring "Dear Doctor" letters.

The FDA, however, after a final intense review, said it would order revisions in the labeling of the drugs to reflect the study findings.

The Council on Drugs of the American Medical Association and the American Diabetes Association made independent reviews and came to essentially the same conclusion as the FDA.

The findings also had been endorsed from the start by the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases, which financed the decade-long research effort with $7 million in grants to 13 university medical schools.

The FDA's weekend bulletin, mailed to all U.S. physicians, was signed by Commissioner Charles C. Edwards. It closely parallels the final labeling revision, which the agency is about to order into effect.

The drug mainly involved is tolbutamide, a chemical developed in West Germany which the Upjohn Co. began selling in the United States under the trademark Orinase in 1957.

The study, formally named the University Group Diabetes Program, followed the cases of more than 800 patients with recently diagnosed, adult-onset, mild diabetes, who were not dependent on insulin.

At the end of an eight-year period, the bulletin said, the cardiovascular death rate was 2 1/2 times higher in the Orinase group (12.7 percent of 204 patients) than in the diet-alone fake drug group (4.9 percent of 205 patients). The death rates for the insulin groups were about the same as for the diet-alone group.

For that reason, Dr. Edwards said in the bulletin, when diet and weight control measures can control adult onset diabetes "no other therapy is indicated."

Smiling Lt. Calley Flies Over My Lai In a Helicopter

QUANG NGAI, Vietnam, Nov. 2 (AP)—Smiling and giving the V-flinger peace sign, First Lt. William Calley Jr. today flew in a helicopter over the area where he is accused of murdering 102 Vietnamese villagers more than 1 1/2 years ago.

The 27-year-old Army officer also spent 45 minutes with Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Toan, commander of the Vietnamese division that operates in the vicinity of My Lai, site of the mass slayings on which charges against Lt. Calley are based.

Lt. Calley was unable to interview two Vietnamese who worked in the Census Department at the time of the alleged massacre on March 16, 1968, and who investigated complaints by surviving villagers. Informed sources said the two men, who have since left the Census Department, could not get to Quang Ngai because the week-end floods had washed out roads they would have had to use.

Lt. Calley will try to see them tomorrow.

Boarding his helicopter to fly over My Lai, about six miles east of Quang Ngai, Lt. Calley smiled broadly and gave the two-finger peace sign to a group of newsmen. Asked how things were going, he replied, "Fine."

Bombs in California

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 2 (AP)—Two dynamite bombs exploded almost simultaneously at an Army induction center and a newspaper office a block apart in downtown Fresno late Saturday night, police said yesterday. No injuries were reported.

B-52s Pound Returning Red In Northern South Vietnam

SAIGON, Nov. 2 (AP)—U.S. B-52 bombers struck in South Vietnam today for the first time in more than three weeks and pounded at North Vietnamese troops trying to move back into the country's northern sector behind receding flood waters.

The giant planes bombed Communist positions near the former U.S. Marine base of Khe Sanh in northernmost Quang Tri province, one of the five provinces swept by floods that already have claimed nearly 200 lives.

Other B-52 bombers struck just across the border in Laos to keep up the continuing raids on the Ho Chi Minh Trail, North Vietnam's main supply lifeline to its troops in Cambodia and South Vietnam.

The prolonged bombing, now a month old and the most intensive B-52 campaign of the war, is aimed at wrecking the Communist "dry season" push of supplies southward through Laos. Unlike the northern sector of South Vietnam, being swept by monsoon rains and floods, most of Laos is well into its dry period.

Elsewhere in Indochina, South Vietnamese troops launched a new sweep into Cambodia yesterday.

The operation started several hours before Viet Cong guerrillas bombed Saigon early today with four rockets in the first shelling of the city in 3 1/2 months. Authorities said the rocket attack, the first since July and the worst in more than a year and a half, killed seven Vietnamese civilians, including four children and 26 civilians were reported wounded and seven houses destroyed. It lasted 25 minutes.

Hundreds of South Vietnamese militiamen pushed just across the Cambodian border about 100 miles west of Saigon, backed by their own helicopter gunships. The South Vietnamese forces claimed killing 43 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

South Vietnamese headquarters said the only government casualties were four militiamen wounded. A spokesman said 23 of the Communist guerrillas were killed by the helicopter gunships.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese government said today that 652 persons have perished so far in the floods in the five northern provinces of the country.

Tolstoi Grandson, Ilya, Dies in N.Y.; Was Ichthyologist

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (NYT)—Ilya A. Tolstoi, 68, noted ichthyologist and grandson of the Russian author, died last Wednesday of a heart attack.

In World War II Mr. Tolstoi served as a lieutenant colonel with the Office of Strategic Services. He led a two-man mission through Tibet to China and became personal representative of President Franklin D. Roosevelt to the Dalai Lama. He was cited for acting with "great tact and diplomacy," and received the Legion of Merit.

He was a director and the former general manager of the Mermaid Oceanarium in Florida. He served in the Russian Army in World War I.

After the Russian Revolution, he came to the United States. Recently he had engaged in motion picture productions and had cultivated sponge beds in the Bahamas, where he also promoted the native-furniture business. He was a vice-president of the Tolstoi Foundation.

Waldemar George

PARIS, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—Waldemar George, 77, French artist and promoter of modern painting and sculpture in the West, died last night in Paris. He was announced Friday. He was born in Poland as George Jarocinski and took the pen name of Waldemar George to write the first essay ever published on Chagall. Other prominent painters such as Picasso and Braque were his friends, and he helped them to come through his articles, books and exhibitions.

Joseph T. Geuting Jr.

KENWOOD, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—Joseph T. Geuting Jr., 61, a developer of the light aircraft industry and a founder of the International Health Foundation Project Hope, died at his home in this Washington suburb Sunday after a short illness.

Mr. Geuting, with two co-founders, planned Project Hope in the living room of his home during the 1950s. The project directs the hospital ship of the same name which sails about the world giving free medical care to the residents of underdeveloped countries.

Francisco Gomez de Liano

MADRID, Nov. 2 (AP)—Former Spanish Finance Minister Francisco Gomez de Liano, 74, died at his Madrid home after a long illness, his family announced Sunday.

Mr. Gomez de Liano, who held the finance post from 1951 to 1957, also was ambassador to the Holy See in 1957.

Pal Szabo

VIENNA, Nov. 2 (AP)—Hungarian author Pal Szabo, 77, one of the so-called people's writers who admitted "mistakes" following official criticism two years after the 1956 uprising, died in Budapest Oct. 31, the Hungarian news agency MTI reported yesterday.

A novelist writing about country life, he was described by MTI today as "one of the most outstanding representatives of contemporary Hungarian literature."

Mr. Szabo was a member of parliament and of the Hungarian Presidential Council.

Cesarovic to Visit

BEGRAD, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—President Nikolaic Cesarovic Romanija will have talks with Tito tomorrow at the Yugoslav country he is visiting.

500 Red Rebels Reported Killed In Burma Battle

RANGOON, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—Burma troops, supported by strikes, have killed more than 500 Red Rebels in the 1000 Shan state, the official Ceylon newspaper reported yesterday. The army suffered ten dead, 50 wounded or missing in week-long battles that follow launching of a big military

The operation was aimed at crushing a large force of which had planned to march against the ricebow of the area, about 60 miles from the Chinese border and some 70 northeast of Rangoon—the Shan said.

After a buildup, the launched simultaneous attack Monday on army strongholds outposts. The rebels used hand fighting.

Aircraft were called in to encounter them became "fierce heavy," the newspaper said.

Zanzibar, Pemba Heavily for Nyere

ZANZIBAR, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—Electors on the islands of Pemba and Zanzibar heavily favored President Julius Nyerere according to results reported today in the Tanzania Daily News.

With mainland Tanzania united republic are not mainland, having elections National Assembly. But joining in the presidential with voters asked to say "no" to Mr. Nyerere, the dictate.

Cesarovic to Visit

BEGRAD, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—President Nikolaic Cesarovic Romanija will have talks with Tito tomorrow at the Yugoslav country he is visiting.

500 Red Rebels Reported Killed In Burma Battle

RANGOON, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—Burma troops, supported by strikes, have killed more than 500 Red Rebels in the 1000 Shan state, the official Ceylon newspaper reported yesterday. The army suffered ten dead, 50 wounded or missing in week-long battles that follow launching of a big military

The operation was aimed at crushing a large force of which had planned to march against the ricebow of the area, about 60 miles from the Chinese border and some 70 northeast of Rangoon—the Shan said.

After a buildup, the launched simultaneous attack Monday on army strongholds outposts. The rebels used hand fighting.

Aircraft were called in to encounter them became "fierce heavy," the newspaper said.

The best of both worlds.

The fastest growing car rental company in America has joined forces with the best car rental people in Europe.

Now you'll find the National Car Rental name alongside some of the biggest names in European car rental. By January, 1971, you'll be able to rent a car from National throughout Europe, the Middle East, and Africa. And you'll be dealing with the managements of European car rental companies you've come to know for the best in service.

Together—these fine European car rental services and National Car—will have more to offer you, the traveler in Europe. National understands the character and style of European car rental service. We believe that to such service we can add innovative ideas of our own that will make for the finest car rental service in Europe and the world.

In the United States, National has a reputation for pioneering one new and improved service after another. From a distant third in the industry just a few years ago, National is now challenging the leaders. We were the first to offer a guaranteed reservation; the first to install a computer to keep track of all cars; the first to have one toll-free number to call from anywhere in the U.S.; the first to offer a complete range of credit plans; the first with "Floating Fleet," a unique one-way service without extra charge. Plans to make these, and other innovations, available in Europe are already under way.

Innovation for the benefit of you, the client, is the name of the game at National. We believe that when you combine this innovative spirit with European style and service, the results are bound to be good.

So start looking for the National sign combined with the biggest car rental names in Europe, and get the best of both worlds.

For reservations, contact your travel agent or nearest National Car Rental office. To get an application for a credit card for yourself or your company, or for further information, write National Car Rental System International, Ltd., P.O. Box 35307, Normandale Branch, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55435, U.S.A.

Ride with us and be number 1
It's a great feeling!

NATIONAL CAR RENTAL
INTERNATIONAL

- 2400 World-wide locations (Tilden Rent-a-Car in Canada)
- In Europe, we feature Opel and Vauxhall
- In the U.S., we feature G.M. cars

(A limited number of franchisees available throughout the world)

© National Car Rental System International, Ltd.

day night
children
At the Met and bewigged part as Germon
Traviata," bar
Robert Merrill translated by
Joan Sutherland
25 years at New Metropolitan Met manager
Bing, left,
Ala. Tucci, second right, and Renata
I were backstage y night to add congratulations
re sopranos have Violetta to
Joan Sutherland.

Tyrano de Bergerac—A New Little Nell

John Walker

Nov. 2.—Not since London wept while little Nell heard beautifully in the air and faded a lovely smile on her face, has there been a death so sentimentalized as Tyrano de Bergerac in al Theater's new production of the play by Edmond the Cambridge The-romantic, full of bravura. He ignores the absurdities and tries for the sort of literal spectacle that can hardly work in the theater today, before an audience used to wide-screen versions of epic reality. The production is strong, even fussy, on detail. But, like a gap-toothed smile on a beautiful woman, there is something lacking in the center.

Edward Woodward's Tyrano, a brilliant and commanding performance, is played against Mr. Garland's hot-blooded conception of the play. From the start, Tyrano here is a shabby, angst-ridden, down-at-heels figure who would be more at home in "Look Back in Anger." His grotesque nose seems just an outward sign of inner unease. He is modern man, a brilliant failure at odds with his environment, whose romantic gestures are full of a death wish.

Roxane, whom Tyrano worships from afar, is played by Anna Carteret as a dumb blonde, vain and empty-headed, so that his courtly love becomes an entirely selfish emotion, merely an idealized form of self-abuse.

Mr. Garland's own translation, peppered with Shakespearean quotations and making use of Herrick's verse, is somewhat prosaic as well as colloquial.

Mr. Woodward is an actor whose abilities are too often confined to television series so that it is good to see him take the opportunity to stretch himself. If you do have tears to shed, then the Cambridge Theatre is the place to shed them.

At the Greenwich

Until Nov. 21, the Greenwich Theatre is presenting "Down the Arches," their first local play, a documentary musical about the building of London's first railway between Greenwich and London Bridge, which is still in use today. Although there are evident weaknesses, it is an exhilarating experience with more than a regional appeal. The underlying theme, the destruction of houses in favor of transport systems, remains an urgent topic.

Ewan Hooper, who wrote the script, directs a talented cast with considerable panache and skill. The use of the auditorium, "Down the Arches" gets up a good head of steam, but what it lacks is a point of view.

But the virtues are many. The story is one of disappointment and compromise. The original scheme was an impossible dream: an elevated railroad together with wide roads and tree-lined boulevards that would be the beginning of a link between Britain and India. The result is an interminable series of undistinguished and shabby railway arches across South London.

Mr. Hooper has unearthed two splendid 19th-century rogues in George Walter and the Rev. James MacDonald. Walter was the entrepreneur whose enthusiasm and dubious business practices led to the building of the railroad. He has one bitter song that alone makes the musical worth seeing: "Always, Behind Every Successful Dreamer, There's a Grubby Little Man With Money Bags."

There is, too, the Rev. MacDonald, a local clergyman who also ran the Isle of Dogs Steam Laundry ("so souls and shirts may shine") and held the patent on a method of building railway bridges out of wrought iron. The clash between the self-interest of these two could have been developed more, for the musical ends abruptly and unsatisfactorily.

Still, there is some rousing singing, a delightful duet for banjo and spoons, and plenty of good-hearted fun. The company plays well together, but particularly enjoyable were Maurice Walsh in a variety of roles, Derek Griffiths as a comic engine driver, Bill Stewart as the unattractive George Walter, and Sally Mates, belting out songs with a broad and earthy relish.

A Revealing Tribute to Scarlatti

By William Weaver

NAPLES, Nov. 2.—In addition to offering its listeners a rich and constant series of musical programs, RAI—the Italian, state-operated radio organization—also sponsors several public concert seasons and at least one annual festival. This festival, arranged in collaboration with the tourist office of Naples, is the Autunno Musicale Napoletano, which concluded its 13th edition last week. In the past, this "musical autumn" has revived any number of interesting and important works, and the latest edition was no exception.

What was exceptional about the 1970 Neapolitan autumn was the fact that the program—consisting of eight musical events—was entirely devoted to a single composer. No, not Beethoven. The Autunno Musicale chose to ignore the birthday boy of the year, and concentrated its attention instead on Alessandro Scarlatti, a composer of perhaps equal historical significance, but much less frequently performed. The brief Naples Scarlatti festival revealed not only the depth of the composer's genius, but also its multiplicity. Two of his operas were revived ("Tigrane" and "La Griselda"), as well as his Requiem Mass of 1717, several symphonic works, cantatas, an oratorio, the "Musica for a Time of Penance" and the rousing "Est Dies Trophæi," a four-part motet, composed for use as an all-purpose celebratory piece for saints' feast days.

Music In Naples

This motet and the 11 Lenten motets (also in four parts, but without accompaniment) were the next-to-last program of the festival, and were performed with great conviction and precision by the RAI's chamber chorus under its founder and choir master Nino Antonelli. Though Scarlatti, in writing these penitential pieces, was purposely composing in an earlier style (obeying his Medici patron's instructions to "write like Palestrina"), they bear the unmistakable imprint of a strong, original musical personality.

The same imprint is even more strikingly evident in "La Griselda," one of Scarlatti's last operas, first performed in Rome in 1721. As one would expect from a work of the period, the opera has little dramatic structure, it is essentially a series of airs of humor. The characters are nobly static, but not uninteresting—especially the patient Griselda (sung sweetly, but rather coldly by Mirella Freni, in this Naples revival). Unfortunately, the conducting of Nino Sencogno showed little penetration of the score's subtleties, little feeling for its rhythmic variety. And the conductor's brusque attitude was reflected also in most of the singing. The castrato parts were assigned to inappropriate voices: baritone Rolando Panerai was particularly ill at ease with the florid music of Ottone (the character who comes closest to being the villain); and tenor Luigi Alva, as Griselda's husband Gualtiero, was occasionally overly romantic, though he sang his arias competently. As Costanza, soprano Carmen Lavanti was refreshingly fresh, accurate, and appealing. The opera was given in concert form; a pity, because its undramatic music would have been helped by some visual support.

L.A. Team To Compete in World Tourney

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP).—A Los Angeles team won the North America bridge championship yesterday and will represent the United States in the world contract bridge team championship tournament in Taiwan next May.

In the final playoffs, the coast team of Lew Stathos, Don Kraus, Richard Walsh, and John Swanson defeated Phil Felderman, William Grieve, Jeff West, Himer and Ira Rubin 356 international match points to 344.

Six teams will play in Taiwan for the world championship. Besides the North American team, there will be the defending 1970 champions, the Dallas Aces, who won in Stockholm last year; the French team which last week won the European championship; the Australian team; a combined team of Nationalist Chinese and Thailand players; and the South American team the members of which will be determined later this month.

Arts Agenda

In place of the originally scheduled Trivini Ensemble of India, the second week of the Paris International Dance Festival will be taken by the Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, which will present a program of five works on Nov. 10, 12, 13 and 14. In another program change, the Cuban National Ballet is bringing a program of four ballets, including Act II of "Swan Lake" and "Carmen" with Alicia Alonso, in place of the originally scheduled "Giselle."

Music in London

The Avant-Garde Yields To Yesterday's Jazzmen

By Henry Pleasants

LONDON, Nov. 2.—This year's Jazz Expo, a week of jazz concerts at the Odeon Theatre in Hammersmith, was noteworthy not for those who were present and performing, but for those who were not.

On the evidence of these annual festivals, the jazz avant-garde has faded in London, at least. In previous years we have been exposed to the new sounds of Charles Lloyd and Archie Shepp and to the solemn explorations of Miles Davis. This year's line-up read like a who's who of jazz in the mid-fifties, or earlier: Earl Hines, Oscar Peterson, Ray Charles, the Modern Jazz Quartet, Sister Rosetta Tharpe, Buddy Rich, Dave Brubeck and Gerry Mulligan.

The reason is simple enough: avant-garde jazz doesn't draw. And without the broadcasting subsidies, foundation grants and academic sanctuaries that provide artificial respiration for the avant-garde of classical music, it expires—or edges into rock and pop.

And so, Jazz Expo '70 was a week of familiar pleasures set forth by seasoned professionals who knew their business and know their audiences. And it was no less enjoyable for being so familiar. Jazz musicians of this caliber always have something new to offer within the familiar style and format, especially when inspired by the large and enthusiastic audiences that packed the Odeon last week.

Invention

Brubeck and Mulligan, continuing their happy association, and given exemplary support by Jack Six on bass and Alan Dawson on drums, were obviously moved by the attention and response of the audience Saturday night, and Mulligan, particularly an inexhaustibly inventive player, seemed more inventive than ever. His virtuosity on the normally unwieldy baritone saxophone would be astonishing enough simply as a physical accomplishment, but when it is sustained, as he sustains it, within an ever lyrical context, it becomes as delightful as it is marvelous.

Brubeck, too, was in fine form. If easier to recognize from his playing than from his appearance. Gone are the heavy, horn-rimmed spectacles, presumably in favor of contact lenses; and the transformation is made more dramatic by longer hair, now gray with a fringe of white and combed and brushed in the style of Bernstein and Karajan.

More familiar as a name than as a presence was Anita O'Day, who made jazz history some 25 years ago by singing more like a jazz instrumentalist than a popular singer and setting an example subsequently noted upon by June Christy and Chris Connor. She never had a lot of voice, and she has less now than she had then; but she is still a delightful vocal virtuoso, still the jazz musician's jazz singer of old.

Buddy Rich's band may well be the best he has ever brought to Europe. Certainly it offers a stunning example of what the young men coming out of the highly disciplined college and university bands can do under the inspiration and exhortations of such a relentless perfectionist as Rich. As for Buddy himself, well, every drummer in town not otherwise engaged was on hand for one or the other of his two concerts, and Buddy took them through every aspect and device of the modern drummer's art.

All in all, a fine week, with fine musicians doing what fine musicians are supposed to do: Renewing for receptive audiences remembered pleasures and giving them something new to remember them by.

Prize-Winning Art

SYDNEY, Nov. 2 (Reuters).—Bill Clements, 37, of Adelaide has won Australia's major art prize worth $5,000 with a "Visual Poem Based on the Tragedy of Hiroshima." He won the Transfield art prize with a painting consisting of 37 photostat prints, linen-backed and hung with string.

AUTHORS WANTED BY N.Y. PUBLISHER

Leading book publisher seeks manuscripts of all types: fiction, non-fiction, poetry, scholarly and religious works, etc. New authors welcome. Send for free booklet. VANTAGE Press, 125 W. 11 St., New York, N.Y. 10036.

Rose de France

Gold clip: $195

O.J. PERRIN

Watchmaker Jeweler

8 Rue Royale - OPE 2434

33 Av. Victor-Hugo - PAS 1777

PARIS ART GALLERIES

- | RIGHT BANK  | LEFT BANK   | CENTRAL PARIS  |
|---|---|--|
| (1) GALERIE FELIX VERCHEL9 avenue Matignon (8e) - 356-23-19710 Madison Avenue, New YorkInclusively: VERNAD, PANKAL, TAVELAK, SPEKO, BOUQUINON, SINKEL | (2) GALERIE VISION NOUVELLE6 Pl. des Mias-Unis, 18e - 553-33-53TUI Feb. 5, VASARELY; Kenta & Itoya. | (3) GALERIE FARMOND3 Rue de Saint-Pierre (2e) - 554-60-60"RENCONTRES 70" - Nov. 5 to Dec. 17 |
| (4) Jeanne BUCHE, 31 r. de Seine 256-22-55DUBUFFET - TOREY - NEVELSONKISSER - JORN - VIERDA DA SILVA  | (5) GALERIE DENTIS RENE139 bd. St. Germain - RAB 77-57GRAPHICS & MULTIPLES                          | (6) MONA LISA, 32 Rue de Valenciennes545-17-52, MODERN ART, KATIE ART                            |
| (6) CENTRE D'ART INTERNATIONAL90 Bd. Raspail - 545-48-42Monumental Works by FERNAND LEGER   | (7) GALERIE GAUCHE, 8 LAUGUSTINI44 r. de Valenciennes (8e) - 548-04-72                                  | (8) A L'IMAGERIE21 Rue St-Jacques (5e) - 538-21-31OLD ADVERTISING POSTERS.                   |
| (7) LA DEMEURE6 place Saint-Sulpice (6e) - 532-02-74  | (9) GALERIE SAINT-GERMAIN184 Bd. St. Germain (6e) - 545-77-91Michel FAUBLEE                         | (9) GALERIE 2 & 25 Rue Valenciennes (6e) - 553-59-55FANTASTIC, SURREALISTIC, SENSUAL         |
| (8) DESHERES, 27 Rue Grange-aux-Belles (8e)533-04-06 - SUREALISTIC  | (10) GALERIE DANTEA RYKKE6 Rue Jacques-Cadotte (8e) - 532-78-42   | (10) GALERIE ZUCKER WELLS8 Rue Bonaparte (8e) - 623-71-68NORA AURIC. Until November 20.      |
| (9) Galerie Paul FACCHETTI, 71 r. de LilleDUBUFFET, RUNDSTADT, KISSER, FASSIANON, LATASSET, TESTU.  | (11) GALERIE 2 & 25 Rue Valenciennes (6e) - 553-59-55   |  |
| (10) FOUNTAIN & Cie, 27 r. de Valenciennes (8e)Modern paintings - Lithographs - Art Books   |   |  |
| (11) LA RINE, 270 Bd. Saint-Germain545-34-55. Open every day till midnight.Original modern Napa. & engravings.  |   |  |
| (12) LA CHAYRE, 41 r. de Seine (comptant)532-02-74. Original modern engravings.   |   |  |

SEND AMERICA TO A CHILD. 11 trips for $9.95

- ★ Face it. An American child living overseas has a number of cultural advantages. But he is missing out on some uniquely American attitudes, ideas and values. Okay, as long as he's abroad. But if he goes home, will he feel at home—or will he feel like a stranger in his own country?
- ★ HIGHLIGHTS FOR CHILDREN can help you shrink the Atlantic a little. It's the most popular children's monthly magazine in the States—a particularly appropriate Christmas gift for any American child growing up far from home—or any young European you'd like to have get to know America better.
- ★ Eleven times a year, HIGHLIGHTS brings youngsters the finest in contemporary American fiction and poetry. Authoritative articles on science and math, art and music. Biographies of famous people who have overcome hardship to achieve success. Dramatic photographs and stunning illustrations of the American scene. And every big, beautiful issue has craft projects, puzzles, games, and plenty of just plain fun.
- ★ Fun is what HIGHLIGHTS is all about. At least that's what youngsters think. But HIGHLIGHTS does more than entertain. It forces children to figure out for themselves why the old-fashioned virtues like honesty, hard work and good manners aren't so old-fashioned after all. It avoids any suggestion of violence or crime in words or pictures.
- ★ The editors are nationally known experts in child psychology and family life who know how to talk to children without talking down to them. The result? Youngsters love HIGHLIGHTS. Adults respect it. Teachers recommend it.
- ★ The magazine appeals to a wide age range—from two to twelve years old.

- ★ Pre-schoolers get ready for reading with picture stories, matching games, interesting headwork and fun-to-do phonics problems. All tough enough to be interesting, but not discouraging.
- ★ Early readers six through nine increase their vocabularies and develop reading skills with HIGHLIGHTS. "Hidden pictures" sharpen their perception, lengthen their attention span. Puzzles, thinking games and other features quicken their wits. Creative projects encourage self expression. Stories and articles show them how to get along with others.
- ★ Youngsters nine to twelve stretch their minds with fact-filled articles on science and other grownup subjects, written by some of America's most knowledgeable and liveliest authors. They develop a fondness for reading good fiction and poetry. And the writing and art projects show them how much fun they can have, working hard to create something all their own.
- ★ HIGHLIGHTS is meant to be kept as part of the children's permanent library. Each 42-page issue is bound in sturdy tabboard and there are no coloring or cut-out pages to mar the lasting beauty of your gift.
- ★ HIGHLIGHTS FOR CHILDREN is sold by subscription only, and addressed to each child himself. If there are several children in the family, a single subscription can be shared.
- ★ When you give HIGHLIGHTS, you are giving more than just a subscription to a well-written, beautifully photographed and illustrated magazine. You are giving a favorite child new insights into American ideas and values—insights that can help him build a happier, more successful future.

Send America to a child this Christmas: give HIGHLIGHTS FOR CHILDREN.
11 issues for $9.95. Special arrangements made to deliver in month of issue.

Please send a subscription to HIGHLIGHTS FOR CHILDREN as my gift to:

Child name(s)	age(s)	Sign gift card "From" 11-6524
Address		(For additional orders, please give us the information on a separate sheet of paper.)
City	Country	Your name
Sign gift card "From" 11-6524		Address, if different from child's
Child name(s)	age(s)	City
Address		Country
City	Country	<input type="checkbox"/> $ or <input type="checkbox"/> are enclosed.
		Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded.

Airmail to:
HIGHLIGHTS FOR CHILDREN
2300 West Fifth Ave.
Columbus, Ohio 43216 U.S.A.

Highlights® for Children

Net Ch'ge	— 1970 — High. Low. Div. In 5	Stocks and Bonds	Sts. 100s. First.	High	Low	Last.	Net Ch'ge
37 1/4	12 1/2	Chrysler	60	17 1/4	16 1/2	16 1/2	25
35 1/4	16 1/2	Chrysler	60	x350	25 1/4	25 1/4	25
41 1/4	33 1/2	Cinn Bell	2 40	7	40 1/2	39 1/4	40
26 1/4	21	Cinn Ge	3.50	78	24 1/2	24 1/2	24

[illegible]

50% to 100%
CASH LOANS
AVAILABLE

ON ALL QUOTED MUTUAL FUNDS
OR LISTED SECURITIES.
HIGH-CAPITAL GROWTH—UNITED GROWTH
AND 105 FUNDS ACCEPTABLE

WRITE GIVING DESCRIPTION OF SECURITIES AND AMOUNT OF LOAN

READ YOUR CLASSIFIED AD TODAY
USE THESE 5 EASY STEPS

---

2. DETERMINE INSERTIONS: ☐ 4 consecutive times (4 for the price of 3)
☐ Ad. to appear — times on the following dates:
1 time

Box service charges are $.50 (Europe) and $1.20 (outside Europe).
Example cost of advertisement: Regular ad. 3 lines x 4 consectimes x $1.57 = $18.84. Rates are per insertion per line. Rates are subject to 23% French tax if advertisement originates in France.

5. SEND TO NEAREST HERALD TRIBUNE OFFICE:

NAME: _____

---

[illegible]

PARIS, Nov. 2.—Financial markets were closed in France and Belgium today. All Souls

Franki Mnt	20,800	41	-14%
Slick Corp	29,500	1254	+2Y
Milgo Elect	27,400	3415	+2
Approx total stock sales			2,240,000
Stock sales year ago			4,074,530

Weimplatz 6
 Phone: 27 41 47 - Telex: 53 641
BROKERS FOR:
 Stocks - Eurobonds - Eurodeposits

SILVER
Oct. 30	208.511	386.222	4.251
Oct. 29	214.389	401.079	4.623
Oct. 28	215.113	371.994	4.022
Oct. 27	229.928	352.491	3.574
Oct. 26	228.884	386.245	2.479

* These totals are included in the Brussels

Georg Jensen
172 Avenue Louise, 1050 Brussels

at Dallas Tex - phone

Theresa M
Aumslungw

Statey Wng.

[illegible]

Contributions, supplied by	Comstk	3.82	4.17	Inv. Guild	3.03	8.03	Pro Portf	6.23	6.87
the National Association	Concord	11.25	11.25	Inv. Indlc	8.03	8.03	Providnt	4.04	4.62
of Securities	Consol In	10.00	10.50	Inv. Bcs	10.83	11.84	Prud Sys	9.10	9.94
Dealers, Inc., are	Contl MI	6.39	6.39	Investors Group:			Puritan	8.91	9.74
the prices at which	Contl Gth	7.63	7.71	IDB Ind	3.78	4.11	Putham Funds:
these securities	Corp Ld	13.25	14.59	Adv	8.49	9.44	Equit	6.72	7.34

Insur	7.16	7.85	Dreyf	Fd	10.39	11.39	Keystone	Funds:	Salem	Fd	4.79	5.29
Advisors	4.63	5.06	Dreyf	Lv	11.34	12.43	Apoll		Schust		unavail
etlla	8.34	9.21	Eaton&Howard:				Cus		Scudder	Funds:
Fd	6.46	6.99	Balem		9.29	10.13	Cus .B1	18.10	Int Inv	13.31	13.56
Life	6.67	6.67	Growth		10.78	11.78	Cus B2	18.13	Spcl	27.53	27.53
Int Am	.57	.62					Cus B4	7.84	Bal	13.39	13.39

[illegible][illegible]

ation	7.41	9.10	UIH	5.46	5.98	NEA	8.96	9.14	Temp	UT	24.30	23.48
road St	12.35	13.50	Incum	1.78	1.95	Nat Ind	8.95	8.95	TPR	MR	4.42	4.64
rn Frn	3.51	3.84	Freedm	7.29	7.99	Nat Invest	6.71	7.33	Pran	Cq	6.70	7.28
ullock	Calvin:		Fd FrMUL	8.99	8.99	Nat Secur	Se:		Trav	Eq	8.48	9.27
Bullock	12.61	13.61	Fund Inc	Grp:		Satan	9.57	10.48	TDOR	GD	11.04	12.07
Candn	18.33	20.58	Cmrc	8.36	9.14	Bond	1.44	5.02	TDOR	GI	2.75	3.01

Learning	Funds:	Bal	Fd	7.95	8.69	Newton	12.86	14.06	Value Line	Fd:
Balcan	10.20	11.15	Com	Fd	11.55	12.63	Sirg	9.74	9.74	Val Lin	5.28
Com St	1.46	1.60	Grnth	Fd	6.58	7.19	Noreasi	14.00	14.00	Incom	4.39
Grwth	4.46	4.87	Grth	Ind	16.88	16.88	Ocnphg	6.23	6.23	Spl Sift	4.40
Incom	6.79	7.42	Gryphn		13.06	12.47	Omega	5.81	5.81	Vnces apt	6.54
Spec	1.54	1.68	Guardn		21.00	21.00	lsl Fd	11.73	12.82	Vandrbt	5.72

Growth	5.12	5.60	Habbsm	3.40	3.72	Phila	12.69	13.57	Tech	7.05	7.65
Incorm	9.64	9.88	ICM Flnt	6.53	7.16	Pilgrim	8.17	8.93	Trust	9.63	10.50
Vent	4.05	4.43	ISI Gth	3.75	4.10	Pine St	10.04	10.04	Wellis	unavail
Grth	10.93	10.73	ISI Inc	3.85	4.21	Plan Ent	5.79	6.33	Wells	10.72	11.72
MS Bd	4.42	4.70	Imp Cap	8.11	8.28	Pion End	10.41	11.54	Winds	8.53	9.32
MS Bd									West ind	5.36	5.56

Journal of Management Education 30(6)

[illegible]

100	Cdn	Pack	1914	1914	1914		7001	LL Lac	2.20	2.20	2.20
1950	Cdn	Perm	Mig	914	914	914	46	10491	Madeline	3.55	3.50	1.55
3200	Cdn	C Wrt		79	66	73	+03	120	Mattag	25.75	25.75	25.75
125	Cdn	Hydro		144	144	144	1/2	50	Newcon	6.00	6.00	6.00
1057	Cdn	Im 8k		1914	1914	1914	1/2	7800	New Imp	2.02	1.97	1.97
		Gas		104	104	104		1375	Obem	11.37	11.25	11.3

125	Cygnus A	4.30	4.30	4.30
130	Cygnus B	5 1/4	5 1/4	5 1/4
663	Dam - Fdrn	22 1/2	19 1/2	19 1/2	1
21750	Dam Stores	10 1/4	9 1/4	9 1/4	1 1/2
1540	duPont Can.	12 1/2	12 1/2	12 1/2
200	Emco	13 1/4	13 1/4	13 1/4
4470	Sheep R	2.40	2.40	2.50	2
1730	Sullivan	5.50	5.35	5
362	Teck A	6.90	6.90	6
225	Trilab	.80	.80	.80
100	Un Keno	5.25	5.25	5
100	Unn - Cas	2.10	2.10	2.10

[illegible]

3428	Moore		37%	30%	-6%
4554	Norand		29%	29%	+0%
8400	Nr Cht G		12%	13%	+1%
2720	OSF Ltd		5%	5%	+0%
1520	Petrofina A		13%	13%	+0%
332	Saschima		16%	16%	+0%
						625	Algora	12%	12%
						225	Asbestos	27	27
						3392	Bank Mont	15	14
						580	Bombardier	13	13
						1135	Brinco	4.85	4.80

1152 Trans. Drm. Bk.	3014	2512	28	14	1400 Royal Bank	224	28
5050 Trans. Can.	3916	1914	1914	14	643 Royal Trst	244	28
7325 Trans. MJ	1816	1816	2212	14	500 STL Colum	2,50	22
345 Un Carb Can	1216	1216	1816	14	103659 Steinberg A	141	14
6980 Un Gas Can.	1412	1412	1212	14	100 Vetric Ind	25	24
400 Un Q Can.	41	41	41	14	Total Sales 1,825,700-shares

1110	Brim MS	4.85	4.85	4.85	4.85
2908	Carrillo	3.05	2.90	2.95	2.95
11101	Can Tung	1.58	1.85	1.85	1.85
2225	Cassier	22.50	22.25	22.50	22.50
700	Chiraley	1.07	1.07	1.07	1.07
1500	Coch Will	.43	.43	.43	.43

100

Japan Motor Firm and GM Discuss Pact

No Capital Link Seen

Now, Isuzu Motor Says

TOKYO, Nov. 2 (NYT).—Isuzu Motor Co., Japan's fourth largest auto manufacturer, has reached a broad agreement with General Motors Corp. covering technical knowledge and sales policy. Isuzu president Torao Aramaki said yesterday. Isuzu officials are due to visit Detroit shortly to negotiate the details.

The agreement, Mr. Aramaki said, does not include a capital tie-up, although GM is interested in such a move.

The announcement means that all of the big three U.S. automobile manufacturers—GM, Ford and Chrysler—are acquiring footholds in Japan's hitherto jealously guarded automobile industry.

Others Have Links

Chrysler Corp. and Mitsubishi announced plans last spring to establish a joint venture with 35 percent participation by Chrysler.

Ford Motor Co. is negotiating to purchase up to 20 percent of Toyota stock.

According to Mr. Aramaki, Isuzu has been negotiating with GM since last August through C. Itoh & Co., one of Japan's major trading companies. Isuzu is one of Japan's top manufacturers of heavy diesel trucks and buses; in the passenger car field it has not been outstandingly successful.

Japan's top two auto manufacturers are Toyota (which produced 739,396 units during the first six months of this year) and Nissan (which produced 685,842 units). Toyota was third with 204,303 while Isuzu trailed with 174,530 units.

Technology Needed

Isuzu, Mr. Aramaki said, needs to import the technology to develop a pollution-free car in a period when restrictions on exhaust gas are likely to become more strict. Isuzu also hopes, he said, to use the GM sales network to market six-ton to eight-ton diesel trucks abroad.

Isuzu had been interested earlier in a tie-up with GM. But, under strong pressure from the government and its own banks, Isuzu reached an agreement last spring with Nissan.

Isuzu executives have been disappointed, however, that the agreement did not lead to a merger of Nissan's diesel division with Isuzu, as they had expected. This, together with a weakening of the government's long resistance to the idea of capital tie-ups between Japanese and foreign companies, helped to revive the GM talks.

Among future possibilities, the Isuzu official said, is a four-way tie-up between Isuzu, GM, C. Itoh and Kawasaki Heavy Industries, a major manufacturer of heavy machinery.

GM Comments

DETROIT, Nov. 2 (AP).—General Motors said today it is discussing with Isuzu "a series of possible cooperation which would afford General Motors potential entry into Japanese markets."

Stocks to Trade On Election Day

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The New York and American Stock Exchanges will be open for normal trading tomorrow, Election Day.

Banks and major commodities exchanges, including the Chicago Board of Trade and New York Commodity Exchange, will be closed.

It's true. You'll see some exquisite—and expensive—jewels in them. Little masterpieces from Brazil. But we stock more modest items, too—starting at just $5. And everything we sell is fully guaranteed. Come in and see for yourself.

In Europe: PARIS, 3, rue de Castiglione. LONDON, Hotel Ritz, domestic airport. ALGARVE, Hotel Jupiter, and Alvor. TEL AVIV, Hilton Hotel. LYONS, Hotel Intercontinental. DUSSELDORF, Hotel Intercontinental. HILTON, Hotel Hilton. Also in New York, Miami Beach, St. Thomas (V.I.) and in 9 South American countries.

H. Stern.

The same craftsmanship, quality, full guarantee throughout the world.

Economic Woes Trouble East Bloc

By Dan Morgan

BELGRADE (WP).—With only two months to go until the end of their current five-year plans, almost every one of Europe's small Communist countries is facing serious economic troubles.

The decision of the Yugoslav federal government last week to crack down on inflation with an industrial price freeze and other measures was a sign that not even this freest of all Communist economies is immune.

Unlike the countries firmly in the Soviet camp, Yugoslavia's problems stem from the confusions of continued decentralization, and to a large extent from the boom of recent years. Neither is a problem in the rigid systems of East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria or Romania. All are in difficulties, and only reform-minded Hungary is likely to have its five-year plan completed when a party congress meets in November.

Free Play for Market Forces

East European technocrats and economists who want more free play for market forces and less government interference are watching, as always, to see how Yugoslavia emerges from its present difficulties.

Regional rivalries and the forces unleashed by decentralization were at least partly responsible for the paralysis in Belgrade on national economic decision-making. This was just broken by the cabinet which voted the price freeze, obligatory cash deposits by importers (to curb foreign buying on credit) and reduction of the level of consumer credit.

Some think that a wage freeze or a devaluation of the dinar could help if the measures fail to halt the current inflation. The cost of living has risen 10.2 percent since January, and some things such as car fares have gone up 40 percent. A balance-of-payments deficit of $200 million is foreseen for this year, and it would be much bigger were it not for the big spending tourists who come here from Western Europe each summer, and for the 800,000 Yugoslav workers abroad who send money home.

Yugoslavia's Problems Symptomatic

Yugoslavia's difficulties, though special, are also symptomatic of problems throughout Central Europe, both in reaching the five-year targets set for 1970 and in drafting the new plan.

Czechoslovakia, which has yet to decide on an economic model for the future, will not complete its new draft at least until mid-1971, and there has been speculation that Poland will also be unable to finish its 1971-1975 blueprint by January.

Agricultural difficulties are unprecedented, partly because of unusually bad spring climates and flood. In September, Polish party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka announced that the five-year goal of achieving independence in wheat production had not been reached and that Poland would have to turn again to the Soviet Union.

Spring floods also hurt production in Romania and even in Yugoslavia's northeast Danubian bread basket, one of the richest in Europe.

In June, the 13th session of the East German Central Committee dealt with a host of woes, including sales of waste and inefficiency. Gunter Kissel, the Politburo's economic chief, admitted severe shortages in the electronics and chemical industries—the very ones where East Germany has built its reputation.

Romania, which has shown flexibility and imagination in importing Western technology and know-how, is handicapped by lack of goods markets in the West. President Nicolae Ceausescu's trip to the United States this month was clearly aimed at advertising the Romanian economy. With heavy loans of the last decade coming due in the next five years, Bucharest is becoming increasingly worried about the credit squeeze.

'Could Handle' Surge in Redemptions

USIF Got Hit by Avalanche, Barish Says

By Philip Greer

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (WP).—A one-month surge we could handle. We could handle a two-month surge. What you can't handle is an avalanche.

Keith Barish sat in a suite in the Carlyle Hotel explaining the debacle of USIF-Real Estate, the $275 million fund he founded less than four years ago. The fund once boasted more than $800 million in real estate.

USIF, which invested 80 percent of its assets in U.S. real estate, suspended sales and redemptions of shares on Oct. 2. The fund's managers will meet in Nassau next month to decide between several alternatives, all of which would tie up investors' money for five years or more.

"When you talk about $40 million worth of redemptions in a very short period of time and the likelihood of an equal number in a short period thereafter, you're facing every kind of fact you know," Mr. Barish went on.

Prices and Incomes Board Abolished by Conservatives

LONDON, Nov. 2 (AP).—The Conservative government tonight announced it was abolishing the National Prices and Incomes Board set up by the Laborite administration five years ago, thus ending Britain's bid to curb inflation by law.

"The best protection for the consumer both as to prices and wages is to be found not in statutory control... but in the processes of competition," Employment Secretary Robert Carr told the House of Commons.

His announcement meant the end of the socialist edifice erected by demolishing of yet another brick in the Labor government during its nearly six years in power.

Mr. Carr said the board will be allowed to complete the work it is now engaged in before being finally wound up.

Cancellation of the board comes at a time when inflation is running at an annual level of more than 9 percent—one of the highest peacetime levels on record. Cries of alarm that British goods were rapidly being priced out of world markets are being heard in increasing volume from industrialists and economists.

The government claims the inflation resulted from demands for huge pay rises, many of which were settled under the Labor regime defeated at the polls by the Tories on June 18.

The answer, government ministers say, is for industry to refuse excessive wage demands and free competition will keep industrial prices down.

Mr. Carr told the House the board will be replaced by three bodies which will advise the government "on the remuneration of certain groups for whom no negotiating machinery was appropriate."

These groups, he said, are the directors of state-owned industries, the judiciary, senior civil servants, senior officers of the armed forces; pay for the armed forces in general, and finally doctors and dentists.

The prices and incomes board was a consultative body. It had no statutory powers.

The government had the power to force postponement of a claim considered excessive or unjustified for a period of six months during which time the Labor government reasoned the pressure of public opinion could be brought to bear.

The record in delaying and even curbing excessive wage claims was fairly good until the administration's legal power to limit the size of wage claims expired late last year. A price explosion followed.

Five Options

There are, apparently, five avenues open to USIF at this point. They are: Liquidation of the assets, re-opening the fund in its old form, conversion to real estate investment trust, conversion to a closed-end fund, whose stock would be traded on an exchange, possibly in this country, and sale of the assets to another company.

According to Mr. Salinger, any of the conversion options would require giving present shareholders the option of selling shares or cashing in their shares. The board, he says, might force the fund to sell some properties to meet redemptions. "The holders must get the option," he says.

Mr. Barish, though, is not quite as definite. "I think the future of the fund is a combination of what management and the custodian (Trust Co. of the Bahamas) think is in the best interests of the shareholders as well as a question of law," he says, adding that the question of giving shareholders an option will have to wait for the next meeting of the board.

Mr. Barish and Mr. Salinger both insist that, while shareholders will likely have to wait some time, they will get back all their money and, possibly, even more.

Gramco and USIF

In the Saturday-Sunday editions of the International Herald Tribune a headline erroneously reported that "Banks Block $30 Million of Gramco Cash." Actually, as the story noted, it was the case of the Gramco-managed USIF Real Estate fund that was blocked. The Herald Tribune regrets the error.

Company Reports

Ashland Oil		Fairchild Hiller Corp.
Year	1970 1969	Year	1970 1969
Revenue (millions)...	1,400.0 1,100.0	Revenue (millions)...	201.9 228.2
Profits (millions)...	50.3 56.8	Profits (millions)...	4.95 4.42
Per Share .....	2.04 2.42	Per Share .....	1.09 0.97
Ames		Illinois Power
Third Quarter	1970 1969	Third Quarter	1970 1969
Revenue (millions)...	25.83 21.33	Revenue (millions)...	174.23 180.36
Profits (millions)...	1.17 0.97	Profits (millions)...	34.03 29.75
Per Share .....	1.17 0.97	Per Share .....	2.35 2.12
Curtis-Wright Corp.		Stewart-Warner Corp.
Third Quarter	1970 1969	Third Quarter	1970 1969
Revenue (millions)...	69.77 65.58	Revenue (millions)...	37.5 44.5
Profits (millions)...	1.86 2.94	Profits (millions)...	2.0 2.56
Per Share .....	0.32	Per Share .....	0.48 0.63
El Paso Natural Gas		Northern Natural Gas Co.
Third Quarter	1970 1969	Third Quarter	1970 1969
Revenue (millions)...	222.25 219.74	Revenue (millions)...	368.02 315.1
Profits (millions)...	8.51 8.49	Profits (millions)...	31.62 29.34
Per Share .....	0.27 0.28	Per Share .....	2.94 2.82

Penn Central Acquisitions Hit in Study

Congressional Staff Issues First Report

By Jan Nugent Pearce

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2 (WP).—Penn Central Transportation Co.'s diversification into non-railroad activities seriously drained the railroad's financial resources and "contributed significantly" to its ultimate collapse, a congressional staff report has concluded.

The parent company's acquisition of real estate and other subsidiaries funneled $175 million in critical cash from the railroad and largely exhausted lines of credit the Penn Central might have used to solve its serious liquidity problems, according to a staff report of the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Committee chairman Wright Patman, D. Texas, said the staff's investigations directly contradicted claims by Penn Central officials that the diversification program provided great benefits and income for the railroad.

Rep. Patman contrasted the $175 million cash-drain figure with the $200 million loan the railroad wanted the government to guarantee in June. After initially embracing the plan, the administration and Congress backed away from it.

The railroad then declared bankruptcy and is now in reorganization. The staff study, which will be followed by other detailing specific aspects of the Penn Central's collapse, focused on the effects of the parent company's diversification program on the railroad's cash position.

Only $19.9 million in cash came to the railroad from its $144 million cash investment in four acquisitions, the report concluded. Most of the cash went to pay for one of the four companies acquired by Penn Central, it continued.

The return cash flow from three real estate subsidiaries was "very unimpressive," the committee staff said. "In fact, it would appear the railroad might have realized a greater rate of return by simply investing this money in improving the railroad, rather than venturing into real estate development."

According to Mr. Salinger, both Mr. Barish and Raphael Navarro, chairman of Gramco Management, have stopped drawing salaries from the company. Mr. Barish points out that he has not been paid by Gramco since April 1969, when he moved back to Florida to become chairman of Amprom Inc., the real estate company which acquires investments for USIF. Mr. Navarro and other top executives, he says, have taken a 10 percent cut in salary.

Five Options

There are, apparently, five avenues open to USIF at this point. They are: Liquidation of the assets, re-opening the fund in its old form, conversion to real estate investment trust, conversion to a closed-end fund, whose stock would be traded on an exchange, possibly in this country, and sale of the assets to another company.

According to Mr. Salinger, any of the conversion options would require giving present shareholders the option of selling shares or cashing in their shares. The board, he says, might force the fund to sell some properties to meet redemptions. "The holders must get the option," he says.

Mr. Barish, though, is not quite as definite. "I think the future of the fund is a combination of what management and the custodian (Trust Co. of the Bahamas) think is in the best interests of the shareholders as well as a question of law," he says, adding that the question of giving shareholders an option will have to wait for the next meeting of the board.

Mr. Barish and Mr. Salinger both insist that, while shareholders will likely have to wait some time, they will get back all their money and, possibly, even more.

Gramco and USIF

In the Saturday-Sunday editions of the International Herald Tribune a headline erroneously reported that "Banks Block $30 Million of Gramco Cash." Actually, as the story noted, it was the case of the Gramco-managed USIF Real Estate fund that was blocked. The Herald Tribune regrets the error.

Japanese Firms Show Profits Up During First Half

TOKYO, Nov. 2 (Reuters).

Nissan Motor Co. after-tax profit rose 4.5 percent in the six months ended Sept. 30 to 14.13 billion yen ($49 million) from the year-ago half, the auto firm reported today. Sales in the latest period were up 7.8 percent at 382.29 billion yen ($1.07 billion).

Fuji Heavy Industries After-tax profits at Fuji Heavy Industries in the six months ended Sept. 30, rose 5 percent to 1.14 billion yen ($3.3 million) on gross sales of $9.03 billion yen ($169.9 million), up 9.2 percent from the year-earlier period.

Kao Soap First-half after-tax profits were up 6.6 percent at Kao Soap, at 783 million yen ($21.7 million), from the 1969 half ending Sept. 30. Sales gained 11.6 percent at 28.76 billion yen ($79.9 million).

Kawasaki Heavy Industries Kawasaki Heavy Industries profits rose 14.6 percent in the six months ending Sept. 30, this year despite a 3.5 percent drop in sales from the year-ago period. After-tax profits totaled $4.8 billion yen ($9.17 million) on gross sales of 116.71 billion yen ($321.4 million).

Kawasaki Heavy Industries profits rose 14.6 percent in the six months ending Sept. 30, this year despite a 3.5 percent drop in sales from the year-ago period. After-tax profits totaled $4.8 billion yen ($9.17 million) on gross sales of 116.71 billion yen ($321.4 million).

Kawasaki Heavy Industries profits rose 14.6 percent in the six months ending Sept. 30, this year despite a 3.5 percent drop in sales from the year-ago period. After-tax profits totaled $4.8 billion yen ($9.17 million) on gross sales of 116.71 billion yen ($321.4 million).

Kawasaki Heavy Industries profits rose 14.6 percent in the six months ending Sept. 30, this year despite a 3.5 percent drop in sales from the year-ago period. After-tax profits totaled $4.8 billion yen ($9.17 million) on gross sales of 116.71 billion yen ($321.4 million).

Kawasaki Heavy Industries profits rose 14.6 percent in the six months ending Sept. 30, this year despite a 3.5 percent drop in sales from the year-ago period. After-tax profits totaled $4.8 billion yen ($9.17 million) on gross sales of 116.71 billion yen ($321.4 million).

Kawasaki Heavy Industries profits rose 14.6 percent in the six months ending Sept. 30, this year despite a 3.5 percent drop in sales from the year-ago period. After-tax profits totaled $4.8 billion yen ($9.17 million) on gross sales of 116.71 billion yen ($321.4 million).

Kawasaki Heavy Industries profits rose 14.6 percent in the six months ending Sept. 30, this year despite a 3.5 percent drop in sales from the year-ago period. After-tax profits totaled $4.8 billion yen ($9.17 million) on gross sales of 116.71 billion yen ($321.4 million).

Stocks Trendless on Election Eve

By Vartan G. Vardan

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (NYT).—Prices on the New York Stock Exchange, playing another round in its favorite current game of wait-and-see, managed to creep slightly higher today.

The Dow Jones industrial average, showing small changes throughout a slow session, finished up 2.40 at 258.01, its best level of the day.

What is the market waiting to see? The outcome of the General Motors strike, now starting its eighth week, the results of tomorrow's midterm elections; the pattern of remaining third-quarter earnings and corporate prospects for the final quarter and then 1971.

On Wall Street, some observers believe that relative success at the polls for Republican candidates will mean a continuation of President Nixon's economic policies. A pronounced swing toward the Democrats, on the other hand, could mean a change in the President's economic plan and possible moves to stimulate money supply and employment.

But precisely what a clear-cut victory for either party would do to the stock market—and the fight against inflation—remained subject to various interpretations, both short-term and long-term.

GM Pays Dividend

One uncertainty at GM was resolved after the market close. The auto giant declared a common stock dividend of 85 cents—the same rate paid in the three previous quarters of 1970—after reporting last week a third-quarter loss of $77 million. The stock added 1/4 at 70 5/8.

IBM climbed 5 3/4 to 299 3/4. Brokers said that IBM and Tele. among other glamour issues, were buoyed by short-covering on that part of traders who had sold borrowed shares earlier and bought them back today.

Tele. the most active stock for the last two weeks, topped the list again today as it gained 1 5/8 to 24 1/2.

National Gains

Other advancing stocks on the active roster included Nationalas, up 3 to 86 5/8, and University Computing, up 1 1/2 to 22 7/8.

International Nickel, the world's dominant nickel producer, was a feature among the blue chips as it climbed 1 5/8 to 44 3/4. This followed a surprise on the dividend front—where the company raised the quarterly payment and also declared a year-end extra—as well as a report of record profits.

The improvement in net income reflected higher prices for nickel. An increase in third-quarter earnings benefited Ansco, up 5/8 to 20.

Volume topped 1.97 million shares, thus reinforcing the wait-and-see attitude of investors. From Friday's 10.53 million shares.

Fairchild Camera, which reported a loss and omitted its dividend last week, was actively traded and tacked on 1 1/2 to 20 5/8. The company said it is reducing the work hours and pay of employees.

Union Oil added 1 5/8 to 34 3/4. The company said a test well liabilities onshore in Indonesia discovery was tested at the rate of 3,100 barrels daily.

Amer. Frac. Mixed

Among the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed to slightly lower in light trading. American Frac. Gas, the most active traded issue, gained 5/8 at 24 7/8.

Amer. Frac. Mixed

Among the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed to slightly lower in light trading. American Frac. Gas, the most active traded issue, gained 5/8 at 24 7/8.

Amer. Frac. Mixed

Among the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed to slightly lower in light trading. American Frac. Gas, the most active traded issue, gained 5/8 at 24 7/8.

Amer. Frac. Mixed

Among the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed to slightly lower in light trading. American Frac. Gas, the most active traded issue, gained 5/8 at 24 7/8.

Amer. Frac. Mixed

Among the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed to slightly lower in light trading. American Frac. Gas, the most active traded issue, gained 5/8 at 24 7/8.

Amer. Frac. Mixed

Among the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed to slightly lower in light trading. American Frac. Gas, the most active traded issue, gained 5/8 at 24 7/8.

By Vartan G. Vardan

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (NYT).—Prices on the New York Stock Exchange, playing another round in its favorite current game of wait-and-see, managed to creep slightly higher today.

The Dow Jones industrial average, showing small changes throughout a slow session, finished up 2.40 at 258.01, its best level of the day.

What is the market waiting to see? The outcome of the General Motors strike, now starting its eighth week, the results of tomorrow's midterm elections; the pattern of remaining third-quarter earnings and corporate prospects for the final quarter and then 1971.

On Wall Street, some observers believe that relative success at the polls for Republican candidates will mean a continuation of President Nixon's economic policies. A pronounced swing toward the Democrats, on the other hand, could mean a change in the President's economic plan and possible moves to stimulate money supply and employment.

But precisely what a clear-cut victory for either party would do to the stock market—and the fight against inflation—remained subject to various interpretations, both short-term and long-term.

GM Pays Dividend

One uncertainty at GM was resolved after the market close. The auto giant declared a common stock dividend of 85 cents—the same rate paid in the three previous quarters of 1970—after reporting last week a third-quarter loss of $77 million. The stock added 1/4 at 70 5/8.

IBM climbed 5 3/4 to 299 3/4. Brokers said that IBM and Tele. among other glamour issues, were buoyed by short-covering on that part of traders who had sold borrowed shares earlier and bought them back today.

Tele. the most active stock for the last two weeks, topped the list again today as it gained 1 5/8 to 24 1/2.

National Gains

Other advancing stocks on the active roster included Nationalas, up 3 to 86 5/8, and University Computing, up 1 1/2 to 22 7/8.

International Nickel, the world's dominant nickel producer, was a feature among the blue chips as it climbed 1 5/8 to 44 3/4. This followed a surprise on the dividend front—where the company raised the quarterly payment and also declared a year-end extra—as well as a report of record profits.

The improvement in net income reflected higher prices for nickel. An increase in third-quarter earnings benefited Ansco, up 5/8 to 20.

Volume topped 1.97 million shares, thus reinforcing the wait-and-see attitude of investors. From Friday's 10.53 million shares.

Fairchild Camera, which reported a loss and omitted its dividend last week, was actively traded and tacked on 1 1/2 to 20 5/8. The company said it is reducing the work hours and pay of employees.

Union Oil added 1 5/8 to 34 3/4. The company said a test well liabilities onshore in Indonesia discovery was tested at the rate of 3,100 barrels daily.

Amer. Frac. Mixed

Among the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed to slightly lower in light trading. American Frac. Gas, the most active traded issue, gained 5/8 at 24 7/8.

Amer. Frac. Mixed

Among the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed to slightly lower in light trading. American Frac. Gas, the most active traded issue, gained 5/8 at 24 7/8.

Amer. Frac. Mixed

Among the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed to slightly lower in light trading. American Frac. Gas, the most active traded issue, gained 5/8 at 24 7/8.

Amer. Frac. Mixed

Among the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed to slightly lower in light trading. American Frac. Gas, the most active traded issue, gained 5/8 at 24 7/8.

Amer. Frac. Mixed

Among the American Stock Exchange, prices were mixed to slightly lower in light trading. American Frac. Gas, the most active traded issue, gained 5/8 at 24 7/8

هكذا من الأصل

To a man who hopes to increase his net, after-tax results from investments significantly... in the next five years!

Will the investment progress you have accomplished in the last five years, if carried forward for the next five, have moved you satisfactorily toward your goal of making your financial future significantly more comfortable and secure?

If your answer is yes, stick to your plan! Do not let us or anyone else influence you to change.

However, if some mutual funds or stocks have treated you poorly, and if time is rolling along, yet your capital and income are not building up as you hoped for... this may not be your fault at all.

Possibly, private, personal investment counsel can help!

"Personal Investment Counsel"

If you invest $10,000 or more and you would like to look into what personal investment counsel might do for you, ask for a complimentary copy of this 48-page book. It describes specific principles of managing money by modern business management methods.

(When you write you may wish to list the mutual funds and securities you own now.)

Mansfield Mills Inc.
Personal Investment Counsel
Investment Adviser Since 1938
7918 Ivanhoe Ave.
(P.O. Box 351) Dept. 4-11E
La Jolla, Calif. 92037

PEANUTS

B.C.

LIL ABNER

BETTY BAILEY

MISS PEACH

BUZZ SAWYER

WIZARD OF ID

REX MORGAN M.D.

POGO

RIP KIRBY

BLONDIE

BRIDGE

By Alan Truscott

South could well have bid four spades directly over the one-diamond opening, thereby provoking East to show his clubs at the five-level. Instead, he adopted a step-by-step policy that disguised the power of his hand at the expense of giving the opponents more opportunities to bid.

East hid his hand strongly up to the four level and reluctantly allowed South to play four spades.

It appears that South will lose two tricks in each red suit in the play of four spades. But South found a neat solution to his problem when West made the normal lead of the club jack. This was won in the dummy, and a club was ruffed with a high trump as the first move toward an endplay.

Dummy was entered with a trump lead to the seven, and the remaining club was ruffed. A diamond was then led to the jack in dummy, and East was subjected to an early endplay at the sixth trick.

A club return would have allowed South to discard a loser and ruff in the dummy, while any other play would have given South his 10th trick in one of the red suits.

South knew from the bidding that East held nearly all the high-card strength and at least five cards in each minor suit. He played on the assumption that East held exactly one spade and two hearts. If East had held a second trump, and been able to exit safely, South would have ducked a heart, expecting to find East with a singleton ace.

It turned out that West's "safe" opening lead was the only one that allowed the game to be made. A heart lead would have given the defense the first four tricks. A diamond would have deprived South of his three-in-card, and a trump lead would have removed a crucial entry from the dummy prematurely.

WEST
♠ 52
♥ Q964
♦ 763 ♣ J1098

EAST (D)
♠ 43
♥ A K1085
♦ QJ4
♣ A63

SOUTH
♠ A K Q J10854
♥ 73
♦ 82
♣ 4

East and West were vulnerable. The bidding:
East 1♦ South 1♠ West 3♠ North 4♠
Pass 4♠ Pass 4♠ Pass 4♠

West led the club jack.

Solution to Previous Puzzle

1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
14	15	16	17	18	19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31	32	33	34	35	36	37
38	39	40	41	42	43	44	45	46	47	48	49
50	51	52	53	54	55	56	57	58	59	60	61
62	63	64	65	66	67	68	69	70	71	72	73

DENNIS THE MENACE

JUMBLE—that scrambled word game

Unscramble these four Jumbles, one letter to each square, to form four ordinary words.

YILCI

CANKK

DULSHO

AGMANE

Print the SURPRISE ANSWER here

Now arrange the circled letters to form the surprise answer, as suggested by the above cartoon.

Yesterday's Jumble: ANNUL FAULT BAMBOO HOMING

Answers: What the boss said when asked how many people worked in his office—ABOUT HALF

BOOKS

THE ELEGANT AUCTIONEERS

By Wesley Tower. Completed by Stephen Varble & Wang. 632 pp. Illustrated. $10.

Reviewed by Christopher Lehmann-Haupt

ON first thought, the idea of a book on America's great art auction houses seems irresistible. The history of the industry, the drama of escalating bids, the excitement in the galleries as the ivory knuckledown Rembrandt's "Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer" for "the price of 30 Cadillac," as one observer mused at the time of the great event.

But on further thought, the prospect palls. The scenarios of auctions vary little. They are side-shows: the fabulous prices that paintings and art objects have fetched have little to do with esthetic worth. And anyone who has ever plowed through Gerald Reitlinger's "The Economics of Taste" knows how dull recitations of artworks and their fluctuating prices can be.

Yet surprisingly enough, Wesley Tower confirms one's first thoughts, for in "The Elegant Auctioneers" he has produced a lively, entertaining almost continually absorbing book, and skillfully surmounted a good many obstacles in the process. He has cheated, of course. Oh, the lists and prices are here, and they will glaze the eyes of readers not fascinated by incense, Tang vases, Futaba Bongs, and the like. But they are nearly as absorbing as the stories of great fortunes amassed, odd sexual arrangements among the financially mighty and the socially aspiring, famous and occasionally bizarre scandals, strange tastes, and peculiar obsessions.

And just as one begins to tire of reading about tycoons, widows wandering the streets at midnight among marble Venuses and fountains where late the champagne bubbled, Tower settles into the chronicle of Cordant Field Bishop, his American Art Association, and his two famous auctioneers, Maj. Hiram Haney, Parke and Otto Bernet.

Cordant Bishop, heir to the fortunes of John David Wolfe, "the shrewd Manhattan hardware merchant," and Peter Lorillard "the snuff and tobacco monger" was a sportsman. He bought America's premier auction house in 1923 from the aging Thomas Kirby (the million-dollar voice), installed Parke and Bernet as vice-presidents, and proceeded to run his business from all over the world, tapping out around messages on a portable Corona, and urging his staff to cut back postage and cablegram costs, while million-dollar collections were passing through his hands.

The AAA prospered for a time, absorbed its leading rival, the Anderson Galleries of Mitchell Kennerley, and set new price records almost yearly. But the Depression, legal wrangles, and finally Bishop's death in 1935 brought the house closer to collapse. When his widow and her companion tried to install an enemy of the firm as president, Parke and Bernet walked out with 40 staff members and set up Parke-Bernet Galleries, P-B.

There are other stories of course, and amusing lights, like the meteoric value of the rare autograph Button Gwinnett, the measure of the Declaration of Independence signers. And there are more dramatic auction scenes than one would thought possible.

Wesley Tower has told in prose that is aptly for his subject, studded with as obscure and exotic as the Pasha Bengalia's rug tapestries. And Tower himself a master at milking last drops of suspense from most unpromising drama, the most confusing was events. (He died in 1963, quite completing his Stephen Varble wrote the few chapters without too able a change in style.)

Mr. Lehmann-Haupt is reviewer for The New Times.

Movies

In New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 2—New York Times film

ics had this to say about arrivals to city screens.

"Cromwell," directed by Hughes, with Richard Harris, Cromwell and Dorothy Tut Queen Henrietta Maria, a rather nice, serious, of grade introduction to a and time. Vincent Canby ports. And Mr. Harris's well he describes as "a some warlike" and "a ge spruced up" historical p age.

"I, a Woman Part III" rected by Mac Ahlberg, is a woman (Gun Falko) what Roger Greenspan of wonderful healthy their men, that only her de (Eager Sundh) fails to stand. Although he s never saw Part II and really remember. Part "finds it impossible to nure the tenacity of the series, and 'he looks hopefully' to the last of 'Burn!' Gillo Pont first film since 'The Bi Algiers,' 'seems an att dramatic not only the of freedom but also the Caribbean heritage. Canby. Indeed, 'it's so broad, so grand, is critic's opinion, 'that he dominated' by either British secret agent (Brando), nor the 'black var.' played by Evaristo quez. But Mr. Brando h siders 'worth watching almost any circumstances.

CROSSWORD—By Will W

ACROSS

1 Lend a hand

5 Hokum

9 About

14 Certain shape

15 Calhoun

16 Of a space

17 Western sight

18 Setting apart

20 Lures

22 Part of a golf club

23 Lose interest

24 Peer Gyn's mother

25 Drink

26 Serpent

29 Before

31 German area

33 Prolong the coffee break

35 Pry

37 Newton

40 Accuse in a courtly way

42 Get feline revenge

44 Dress material

45 Cliff

47 Mother of Apollo

48 Kinders

49 Colors

52 Engage in seamy work

53 Iowa Indians

55 rule

57 First

59 Noun form: Abbr.

60 Examine oneself

61 Clearly

67 Toward shelter

68 "..." horse

69 Scent

70 Trick

71 Lapse

72 Confines

73 Defeats at bridge

DOWN

1 Direct to a target

2 On the level

3 Foot model

4 Without frills

5 Stable-owner's concern

6 Soil

7 Overdue debts

8 Church songs

9 Gas users

10 Annoy

11 Keeps on making a point

12 Hiawatha's

13 Writer of age

19 Sweetson

21 Camper's

25 Kind of metabolism

26 Word of reg

27 Short-billed

28 Perickety

30 Broadcast

34 Goes to the

36 Biblical br

38 Deed, in Fr

39 Dog

41 Pen pal

42 Grooming

46 Parlor-gam subject

49 Vanish: Sc

51 Drink slow

53 Heavy stal

54 Go, in Fr

56 Sharpen razor

58 Darlings

60 River in B

61 Panay ton

62 Hint

63 Trout

64 Observes

66 Japanese!

As Blanda Kicks 48-Yard Field Goal

Raiders Tie Chiefs in Final 3 Seconds

SEAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 2 (UPI)—George Blanda's 48-yard field goal with three seconds to go gave Oakland a 17-17 tie with the Chiefs in the American Conference's Division.

and's Darryl Lamoni's four passes, starting from 20 with 46 seconds to go, moved the Raiders to the City 41 with eight seconds

Redskin Defense Halts Broncos' Attack, 19-3

By Dave Brady

INVER, Nov. 2 (UPI)—Washington came up with a new yesterday—the lopsided 19-3 victory—by its defense that saddled Denver with its rare defeat at Mile High Stadium.

The Redskins triumph over the leading team in the tough Division of the American Football Conference marked the first time the Redskins had held a touchdown since 1963, as their first loss at home since the Oakland Raiders beat set October and yesterday's events dropped them behind the in their division race.

Yesterday's late edition of the Herald Tribune carried an erroneous from the Associated Press which had the final score as a 0-0 tie. Washington defenders were making it nine consecutive in which the Redskins goal line has not been pierced.

turned over the ball to the Redskins offense on an inter-throw to tight end Jerry Smith and a fumble which enabled night to kick his second of two field goals.

light's streak of consecutive successful field goals was broken when he missed a free kick from 49 yards on the last play first half, following Dave Kopy's fair catch of a punt by Van Housen.

light missed another 49-yard placement and his second extra-looked as though it was going to be a close contest, hitting and 44 yards.

defense showed its appreciation by extending its streak of quarters to eight, going back to the last period of the Oakland two weeks ago. This Broncos finally scored after 12 seconds, on a 36-yard field goal by Bobby Howfield.

a victory enabled Washington (4-3) to keep pace in the National East as Dallas (3-2), St. Louis (5-2) and New 4-3) all won.

Syracuse Harmony May Bring Bowl Bid

By Neil Amdur

YORK, Nov. 2 (UPI)—Syracuse is in a possession how? kidding, of course. Didn't that season end up there a ago? Wasn't coach Ben Schwartz "out," weren't tensions dividing the team? national television news and free-lance writers try weekend to cover the rise?

last Saturday's 43-13 victory over streaking Pitts-Orange, according to dley, founder and executive of the Liberty Bowl, are only a team to be con- centrating now, that's "ference" Joe Ehrmann, a re tackle, said yesterday of the fourth straight victory, as first three games, there much pressure and so many gs that we couldn't con- on football. We always were a good ball club," trouble involved the boy- of the team by eight back s).

early-season problems, Ehr- said, have strengthened unity. An example of team rness occurred during the rgh game when Schwartz-approached Paul Paolillo, a back along the sidelines.

"Schwartz was asking, 'that's okay,' said Paolillo, a quarterbacked the team tandy Zur sat out three ith broken ribs. "Let Randy it, he's hot." Zur scored two ws and passed for two ainst Pitt.

the most satisfying performance of the weekend belonged to il- lino, which beat Purdue, 22-21, with a touchdown in the final two minutes.

The victory was the first in the Big Ten conference for the Illini since 1968 and came one week after coach Jim Velek had been dismissed and subsequently rehired for the remainder of the season.

"He deserved the win," said Darrell Robinson, the junior tackle who scored from six yards out. "We're behind the coach all the way."

Dartmouth, now 6-0, made 489 yards total offense, blanked previously unbeaten Yale, 10-0, and gained sole possession of first place in the Ivy League.

The question of the No. 1 spot nationally continues to be a three-team duel between Ohio State, Texas and Notre Dame, all of whom remained undefeated with victories last weekend.

Ohio State, trailing at halftime in the second successive week, threw only two passes in the second half but beat Northwestern, 24-10.

"We never had the ball," said injured his right arm. With Don Horn throwing for the Packers, the San Francisco defense picked off three passes as it continuously forced the quarterback out of the pocket.

Frank Nunley intercepted two passes and Al Randolph and Bruce Taylor one each. Skip Vanderbrunt and Elmer Collett recovered the Packers' fumbles.

The 49ers' score came on a six-yard pass from Brodie to Bob Windsor; a six-yard run by Doug Cunningham and field goals of 13, 34, 41 and 36 yards by Gossett. Cunningham's touchdown was set up by a 53-yard pass from Brodie to Jim Thomas, a running back filling in as a wide receiver for the injured Gene Washington.

The victory was the 49ers' fifth against a loss and a tie and kept them a half game ahead of Los Angeles in the NFC Western Division race. The loss was the third in seven games for the Packers and dropped them two full games behind Minnesota in the NFL Central Division race.

Denver's two scores came on Dale Livingston's nine-yard field goal and a 53-yard pass from Horn to Jack Clancy.

However, Otis Taylor, the Chiefs' receiver, retaliated by slugging Davidson. He was ejected from the game. The referees then decided that the penalties on Davidson and Taylor were offsetting and the ball was brought back to the Oakland 48 and the play was run again as a third-and-11 situation.

The Chiefs figured Taylor's foul came after the play was dead, and that the "first" down that Dawson gained should stand and then the penalty should be assessed. Referee Bob Finley disagreed: "A piling-on penalty was called on Oakland, then Kansas City started the fight. Play was not over until both penalties had been called. It was a continuing action foul. I did not know there were two penalties originally when the ball was moved to the 14. The second penalty was not reported until after the fight."

With the ball back on the 48, Kansas City tried a run and then pulled it to the end zone. Oakland began play from the 20 with 46 seconds remaining.

Lamonica, who had been considered a question mark all week because of injuries, then directed a five-play drive to the Kansas City 41 with three seconds remaining.

49ers 26, Packers 19

San Francisco's defensive team came up with four interceptions and two fumble recoveries yesterday and the offense, led by John Brodie and Bruce Gossett, turned the breaks into two touchdowns and four field goals for a 26-10 victory over the Green Bay Packers in Keszler Stadium.

Bart Starr started at quarterback for Green Bay but left early in the second quarter when he re-

Cowboys Reactivate Asher

DALLAS, Nov. 2 (AP)—The Dallas Cowboys reactivated a rookie center, Bob Asher, yesterday and put a guard, Halvor Hagen, on the taxi squad.

Alex Agase, the Northwestern coach.

The Buckeyes may yield their top spot, however, to Texas, since the Longhorns spoiled Southern Methodist's well-laid plans for a trip or treat with 430 yards rushing in a 42-15 rout.

"We had fake punts set up, we had fake field goals set up, we had outside kicks set up, with the intention of doing them all," lamented Hayden Fry, the SMU coach, after the Longhorns ground out 430 yards rushing for their 30th straight victory.

WV's No. 1 may not be decided finally until after the bowls are completed, since such potential postseason pairings as Stanford-Ohio State (Rose-Bowl), Notre Dame-Nebraska (Orange) and Tennessee versus the Texas-Arkansas winner (Cotton) could affect a legitimate No. 1 choice.

The biggest surprises last week-end were settled with field goals.

California, after Southern California's third loss, 13-10, with a 46-yard fourth-quarter kick by Randy Wersching. Air Force, another major bowl possibility and awaiting a Nov. 14 showdown with Stanford, preserved its perfect record, 23-0, over Arizona when Craig Barry kicked a 20-yard field goal on the last play of the game.

Barry had missed a 23-yarder on the preceding play, but Arizona was penalized for roughing the kicker, giving him a second chance.

Monday's Game

Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

Sunday's Games

Dallas at NY Giants.

Atlanta at NY Jets.

Cleveland at Oakland.

Houston at Kansas City.

NY Jets at Pittsburgh.

Denver at San Diego.

San Francisco at Oakland.

San Diego at St. Louis.

Minnesota at Washington.

Next Monday's Game

Baltimore at Green Bay.

Monday's Game

Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

Sunday's Games

Dallas at NY Giants.

Atlanta at NY Jets.

Cleveland at Oakland.

Houston at Kansas City.

NY Jets at Pittsburgh.

Denver at San Diego.

San Francisco at Oakland.

San Diego at St. Louis.

Minnesota at Washington.

Next Monday's Game

Baltimore at Green Bay.

Monday's Game

Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

Sunday's Games

Dallas at NY Giants.

Atlanta at NY Jets.

Cleveland at Oakland.

Houston at Kansas City.

NY Jets at Pittsburgh.

Denver at San Diego.

San Francisco at Oakland.

San Diego at St. Louis.

Minnesota at Washington.

Next Monday's Game

Baltimore at Green Bay.

Monday's Game

Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

Sunday's Games

Dallas at NY Giants.

Atlanta at NY Jets.

Cleveland at Oakland.

Houston at Kansas City.

NY Jets at Pittsburgh.

Denver at San Diego.

San Francisco at Oakland.

San Diego at St. Louis.

Minnesota at Washington.

Next Monday's Game

Baltimore at Green Bay.

Monday's Game

Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

Sunday's Games

Dallas at NY Giants.

Atlanta at NY Jets.

Cleveland at Oakland.

Houston at Kansas City.

NY Jets at Pittsburgh.

Denver at San Diego.

San Francisco at Oakland.

San Diego at St. Louis.

Minnesota at Washington.

Next Monday's Game

Baltimore at Green Bay.

Monday's Game

Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

Sunday's Games

Dallas at NY Giants.

Atlanta at NY Jets.

Cleveland at Oakland.

Houston at Kansas City.

NY Jets at Pittsburgh.

Denver at San Diego.

San Francisco at Oakland.

San Diego at St. Louis.

Minnesota at Washington.

Next Monday's Game

Baltimore at Green Bay.

Monday's Game

Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

Sunday's Games

Dallas at NY Giants.

Atlanta at NY Jets.

Cleveland at Oakland.

Houston at Kansas City.

NY Jets at Pittsburgh.

Denver at San Diego.

San Francisco at Oakland.

San Diego at St. Louis.

Minnesota at Washington.

Next Monday's Game

Baltimore at Green Bay.

Monday's Game

Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

Sunday's Games

Dallas at NY Giants.

Atlanta at NY Jets.

Cleveland at Oakland.

Houston at Kansas City.

NY Jets at Pittsburgh.

Denver at San Diego.

San Francisco at Oakland.

San Diego at St. Louis.

Minnesota at Washington.

Next Monday's Game

Baltimore at Green Bay.

Monday's Game

Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

Sunday's Games

Dallas at NY Giants.

Atlanta at NY Jets.

Cleveland at Oakland.

Houston at Kansas City.

NY Jets at Pittsburgh.

Denver at San Diego.

San Francisco at Oakland.

San Diego at St. Louis.

Minnesota at Washington.

Next Monday's Game

Baltimore at Green Bay.

Monday's Game

Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

Sunday's Games

Dallas at NY Giants.

Atlanta at NY Jets.

Cleveland at Oakland.

Houston at Kansas City.

NY Jets at Pittsburgh.

Denver at San Diego.

San Francisco at Oakland.

San Diego at St. Louis.

Minnesota at Washington.

Next Monday's Game

Baltimore at Green Bay.

COMMISSIONER SAYERS—Chicago's Gale Sayers handles the phone in his role as Chicago Park District head. The Bears' running back will not play for the rest of the season because of recent knee surgery.

Italian Boxing Group To Investigate 'Farce'

ROME, Nov. 2 (UPI)—The Italian Boxing Federation said today it will investigate the victory of former world junior middleweight champion Sandro Mazzinghi in a fight, newspapers called "Grotesque," "Zigzagging" and "A Farce."

The 30-year-old Italian scored an eighth-round knockout over Willie Warren of Corpus Christi, Texas, in a fight at Bologna Saturday night. A crowd of 3,000 booed both men from the fourth round on, urging them to fight, and hurled things into the ring for five minutes when the bout ended.

Boxing Federation president Franco Evangelisti ordered an official investigation after a ringside boxing commissioner reported the knockout was "simulated."

It was Italy's biggest boxing hubbub since Mazzinghi was stripped of his world title in 1968 following a controversial "no contest" decision in his title defense against Freddie Little of New Orleans, La.

Mazzinghi first won the world title from Ralph Dupes in 1963 and lost it in 1965 to Benvenuti, current world middleweight champion. He regained it in 1968 from South Korea's Kim Ki-Soo.

Newspapers blamed promoters rather than Mazzinghi for what they called his "faked" victory over Warren.

"Grotesque Comedy," headlined Turin's Stampa Sera. "They destroyed Sandro Mazzinghi by presenting him the win over Warren." The paper called the fight "a scandal scene, an irritating hoax, a squall of which we had not seen the like in more than 20 years of boxing."

"Inglorious win," said Rome's Corriere Della Sport. "We say it once again: They are ruining the prestige of a splendid champion."

"The Bologna farce destroys what is left of boxing," said Milan's La Gazzetta dello Sport.

"Rottenness is surfacing everywhere... supporting the theory of those who say boxing on the professional level should be abolished."

Bagner vs. Scrap Iron

LONDON, Nov. 2 (UPI)—British heavyweight Joe Bagner hopes to claim his 11th North American victory tomorrow night when he meets George "Scrap Iron" Johnson at the Royal Albert Hall.

Johnson, of Oklahoma City, has met the best in the business, which explains his 12 losses in a 29-fight career. He has 14 victories and three draws.

Laurel Field Completed

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—Senator, who finished in a dead-heat for first in the Gran Premio Clasico Simon Bolivar in Venezuela, has become the ninth and last horse in the field for the Washington D.C. International at Laurel Race Course Nov. 11.

Laurel Field Completed

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—Senator, who finished in a dead-heat for first in the Gran Premio Clasico Simon Bolivar in Venezuela, has become the ninth and last horse in the field for the Washington D.C. International at Laurel Race Course Nov. 11.

Laurel Field Completed

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—Senator, who finished in a dead-heat for first in the Gran Premio Clasico Simon Bolivar in Venezuela, has become the ninth and last horse in the field for the Washington D.C. International at Laurel Race Course Nov. 11.

Laurel Field Completed

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—Senator, who finished in a dead-heat for first in the Gran Premio Clasico Simon Bolivar in Venezuela, has become the ninth and last horse in the field for the Washington D.C. International at Laurel Race Course Nov. 11.

Laurel Field Completed

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—Senator, who finished in a dead-heat for first in the Gran Premio Clasico Simon Bolivar in Venezuela, has become the ninth and last horse in the field for the Washington D.C. International at Laurel Race Course Nov. 11.

Laurel Field Completed

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—Senator, who finished in a dead-heat for first in the Gran Premio Clasico Simon Bolivar in Venezuela, has become the ninth and last horse in the field for the Washington D.C. International at Laurel Race Course Nov. 11.

Laurel Field Completed

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—Senator, who finished in a dead-heat for first in the Gran Premio Clasico Simon Bolivar in Venezuela, has become the ninth and last horse in the field for the Washington D.C. International at Laurel Race Course Nov. 11.

Laurel Field Completed

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—Senator, who finished in a dead-heat for first in the Gran Premio Clasico Simon Bolivar in Venezuela, has become the ninth and last horse in the field for the Washington D.C. International at Laurel Race Course Nov. 11.

Laurel Field Completed

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 2 (AP)—Senator, who finished in a dead-heat for first in the Gran Premio Clasico Simon Bolivar in Venezuela, has become the ninth and last horse in the field for the Washington D.C. International at Laurel Race Course Nov. 11.

Golfer Hiskey Wins His Biggest Check

By Lincoln A. Werden

LAS VEGAS, Nov. 2 (UPI)—Bryant (Babe) Hiskey of Houston wrote a new success story for the golf tour yesterday.

With a concluding par 71 for a total of 278, the 31-year-old professional won the first prize of $20,000 in the $100,000 Sahara Invitation tournament by one stroke.

So unexpected was his triumph after 14 years that he was momentarily startled when, as a gag, he was given a four-foot cardboard check signed by the financial sponsor, Del Webb.

"What! What!" he said. "Do I have to go to the bank with that?" His earnings had been so meager that he commented, "I've been broke so long, I don't know how many times."

This year, Hiskey had previously won $8,000 in 11 money finishes in 30 events. He failed eight times to qualify for tournaments.

Trailing him were Bob Goalby, Terry Dill and Miller Barber in a three-way deadlock for second at 277. Goalby rallied with a 66. Dill had a 65 and Barber posted a 68 in their bid to overtake Hiskey, who had led going into the last round.

In 14th place on the money-winning roster, Hiskey was placed at finishing ahead of many super stars. Billy Casper, the leading money-winner, was among those at 279, while Jack Nicklaus, who won here a year ago, was far down at 286.

Gusts of wind marked the last round, but despite some spectacular golf on the part of Chi Chi Rodriguez (69) and the challenge by Dill, Goalby and Barber, Hiskey appeared remarkably calm—as he began.

"This is something like a miracle," he said before he teed off on the 34-hole leader, having a one-stroke edge over Will Homenuk of Canada.

Homenuk took a 75 for 281. With nine holes to play over the 7,109-yard Paradise Valley course, Hiskey had a one-stroke lead over Larry Hinson and Barber.

The Texan equaled par 35 going out. After that he reeled off nine consecutive pars.

"If I told you how much I prayed today, you'd think I was a nut," Hiskey said after the victory. "I know a lot of Bible verses and last night in my motel room I listened for four hours to those teaching verses on tape."

After joining the pros at 24, Hiskey was unsuccessful on the tour. In his first 14 months, he earned $395 and was asked to relinquish his player's card since officials believed golf was not affording him a livelihood. That was in 1964. He convinced them later he could play well, and won the Cajun Classic in 1965.

Player in Tokyo

TOKYO, Nov. 2 (AP)—South African golfer Gary Player arrived here today to compete with 20 top Japanese professionals in the third Arnold Palmer Rolex Golf Tournament.

The tournament, which carries first-prize money of $3,333, will be held at the 6,500-yard, par-72 Kawasaki International Golf Country Club starting Nov. 7.

Among the 20 competing against Player, the only foreign entrants are Eideyo Sugimoto and Takashi Mukanami, the winners of the previous two Rolex tournaments.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

Italy Picks Skiers

ROME, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—The Italian Olympic Committee yesterday announced the names of seven skiers who are "probables" for the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan. The seven are Stefano Anzi, 21; Pier Lorenzo Caltaud, 23; Eberardo Schmalz, 20; Elmus Schmalz, 22; Gustav Thoenel, 19; Marcello Farin, 23, and Giuseppe Compagnoni, 27.

